Questions for Dean Inge. Sam's Best Customers. Nature in No Hurry. Money Goes to Money.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1925, by Star Co.

IN CONNECTION with religious hatreds and stupidities, did you notice the farewell remarks of the Very Rev. Inge, Dean of St. Paul's, London, as he sailed for home?

He said to the reporters, and all the newspapers print his words:

"I would advise them" (meaning the Jews) "to rebuild the Temple of Solomon here in New York, where they have the largest number of Jews—and plenty of Gentiles to fleece."

The reverend gentleman also remarked that he would be glad to get back to his cellar, meaning his supply of alcoholic fluid.

IT ISN'T worth while to tell Dean Inge what the Jews have done to build up this country, or how much England owes to the intelligence of Cromwell, who allowed the Jews to come into England and build up English prosperity, while Spain and Portugal went down and stayed down because superstitious brutality drove the Jews out.

BUT YOU might ask the Dean, well paid by the Christian Church, these questions:

How do you make your living? Do you suppose there would be any such thing as a Dean of St. Paul's Christian Cathedral if there hadn't been any Jews?

Where do you think Christianity started? What was the nationality of the Apostles and of the Mother of Christ?

AND TO THOSE questions you might add this:

Providence, in sending the religion to which you believe, or rather in which you DON'T believe, to this earth, had its pick of the whole globe. Why did it pick out the land inhabited by Jews? Perhaps Dean Inge thinks Providence knows less than the Dean of St. Paul's.

NEVER QUARREL with your customers, especially your best customers, and don't get raised up in anything that might lead to a quarrel.

The United States Chamber of Commerce informs you that Uncle Sam has seven big outstanding customers. They bought from the United States in 1924 TWO THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS' WORTH OF PRODUCTS.

SUCH CUSTOMERS are worth keeping. Their names are Great Britain, Canada, Germany, Italy, France, Japan, China.

The wise merchant keeps on good terms with customers, treats them all fairly and alike, avoids anything that might cause friction.

THEREFORE, when Uncle Sam is invited to entertain any foolish League of Nations, or into any well-packed World Court, he should reply:

"No, THANK you, gentlemen. I stay on my side of the ocean, doing business politely and efficiently over my counter. I shall not mix up in anything that might cause unpleasant irritation. I am not going to help England decide against France, Japan against China, or Germany against Italy. You are my good customers. I shall continue to attend to my business, and I shall do it in the old American way."

YOU WILL observe that in spite of his much criticized and wholly sound Washingtonian plan of minding his own business old Uncle Sam is not losing trade.

For the month of April he sold to other countries more goods by $400,000,000 worth than in any April during the last five years. And the trade balance for April was to Uncle Sam's favor by $51,000,000. When you are doing well, don't let critics worry you. Sometimes their criticism is not ENTIRELY unselfish.

THIS IS the only country that has any supply of helium gas worth while. We get it after it has leaked through the earth and in pools of natural gas.

According to Dr. Eliot, chief of the Bureau of Mines: "It takes 20,000,000 years for helium

GET WARRANTS FOR 'JIMMY' KENNEDY AND JAKE DRISCOLL

A midnight party in the Back Bay that was gay until it got rough, had an unexpected sequel in Roxbury Court today when warrants were issued for the arrest of Jake Driscoll, B. A. A. sprinter, and Jimmy Kennedy, former football star at Boston College and Holy Cross.

Policemen left the courtroom immediately to serve the warrants and bring the athletes in.

Miss Celia Doherty and Miss Marie Young, who have an apartment together at No. 1203 Boylston street, Back Bay, are the complainants.

They accuse the sprinter and the gridiron hero of assault and disorderly conduct. In addition, they charge Kennedy with winding up an exciting evening by leaving with $23 belonging to them.

They "gave" the party on the night of May 11, they said, in making application for warrants.

Driscoll and Kennedy, both of them christened James, were among the guests.

As the night wore on, according

LANDS RUM AS COAST GUARD WAITS NEARBY

Forty cases of liquor were landed on the beach at Galloupe's Point, Swampscott, while Captain Frank A. Gove of the Nahant Coast Guard station was in company with Harry Brown, alleged rum runner, in a hunt for the smugglers, Captain Gove testified in the Swampscott hearing today.

The captain and all his men were summoned as witnesses today in the hearing before the Swampscott selectmen, where Police Chief William L. Quinn faces charges of being in collusion with rum runners.

A midnight telephone call, flashing lights on the sea-lapped strand, a pretty girl in an automobile on the black beach, a waving gun and a

EARL SMITH, PIRATE CATCHER, SUSPENDED

President Barney Dreyfus of the Pittsburgh baseball club was notified today by John A. Heydler, president of the National League, that Catcher Earl Smith, of the Pirates, had been suspended pending an investigation of an attack he is accused of making on a local fan at yesterday's game at Braves Field.

As the result of the alleged attack Smith has been summoned to appear in Brighton Court tomorrow. It is charged he resented a "riding" on the part of the fans by attacking the

STUDENTS CORDIAL, W. J. BRYAN INSISTS

Blandly denying any friction with students at Brown University, where he was said to have been hissed and booed from the platform, William J. Bryan, politician real estate expert and anti-evolutionist, arrived in Boston today.

After a few hours' rest at the Hotel Bellevue he delivered a lecture at the Harvard Union on "Democracy," and tonight at the same place is scheduled to discuss "Religion and Science."

Shrouded in an anti-bellum cloak and an air of suave imperturbability, the whole topped off by a rakish sombrero, the silver-tongued Chautauqua favorite debarked from a train at the South Station, unheralded but not unsung.

A keen-eyed Red Cap porter was

Lakehurst, N. ## COOLIDGE READY TO ACT ON COAL STRIKE

Washington, May 15 (I.N.S.).—President Coolidge and his Cabinet are frankly concerned over the possibility of a strike in the anthracite coal fields when the present wage agreement between the operators and the United Mine Workers expires August 30, it was learned today.

The possibility of a strike hinges on the announced intention of the miners to ask for an increase of from 10 to 30 per cent. over the present scale, while the operators are expected to insist upon a reduction of anywhere from 10 to 30 per cent.

The government will closely watch the negotiations for a new wage agreement and in the event a deadlock ensues undoubtedly will take active measures to insure a continuation of work in the hard coal regions.

GEN. CHARLES W. WOOD OF WORCESTER DEAD

Worcester, May 15.—One more veteran of the Civil War, General Charles W. Wood, prominent lawyer and stock breeder, was missing today from the "thin blue line."

Only one month away from his eighty-first birthday, General Wood, former department and national commander of the Union Veterans' Union, died at his Shrewsbury home from illness growing out of a recent nervous breakdown. He was thrice president of the International Dairy Congress and president of Holstein-Friesian clubs. He was born in Worcester and was a member of many fraternal bodies. Surviving him are one son and three daughters.

SLAIN 'SHEIK' NEVER PACKED GUN, WIDOW ASSERTS ON STAND

By BERT FORD

New Haven, Ct., May 15.—Mrs. Carolina Bagnano, widow of "Sheik" John Bagnano, testified today at the trial of Olympia Maeri, charged with slaying Bagnano, that she never believed, and does not today, that her husband was the father of the accused girl's baby.

Attorney Joseph Koletsky, counsel for Olympia, drew this statement from the girl-widow in cross-examination. He also developed the fact that the witness had demanded proof of the paternity of the child before she would carry out her promise to care for the baby—a promise she had made to the accused young mother.

Counsel for the defense introduced another "mystery girl" today, this time in an attempt to combat the widow's claim that her husband, the slain singer, did not meet "other women."

The jury was excused and Attorney Koletsky called Miss Ida Silvey, a young girl, bobbed-haired and wearing a light polo coat.

DENIES BEING BEATEN.

"My purpose in calling Miss Silvey, your honor," said Attorney Koletsky, "is to show that when Mrs. Bagnano says she knew nothing about her husband's affairs with other women she knew about his affair with this girl in Middletown in August, 1923."

Judge Avery here interrupted and excluded the attorney's words from the records. Attorney Koletsky at once filed an exception.

Continuing his cross-examination of Mrs. Bagnano, Attorney Koletsky asked:

Q.—Now, as a matter of fact, you wouldn't accept Olympia's baby until she proved, to your satisfaction, that it was your husband's child, would you? A.—No.

Q.—And you didn't then believe it was your husband's child? A.—No.

Q.—And you don't believe today that it is Johnny's child, do you? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you complain about your husband's treatment of you? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't he beat you up? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you tell Olympia you

CAR USED IN $25,000 HOLDUP FOUND HERE

Called to East Newton street in the South End to take charge of an abandoned automobile, detectives today discovered that it was the touring car used yesterday by the five armed thugs who robbed two bank messengers of the $25,000 payroll of the Lever Brothers Plant in Cambridge.

The machine was driven to the East Dedham street station. There it was examined by Inspector Joseph Rollins, finger print expert.

Finding of the car was the first clue and the only hopeful development of the investigation.

GROVER'S FORTUNE GONE, OWES $57,000

Lydon V. Grover, Lynn shoe manufacturer who has been reputed a millionaire, and who is suing his wife for divorce, has not only exhausted his financial resources, but is in debt $57,000, according to a statement by his counsel, Harry R. Mayo, in argument before Judge Dow in the Salem Probate Court today.

Attorney Mayo declared that Grover's financial statement shows today he has only $123 in the bank and owns nothing but his equity in the J. J. Grover's Sons Shoe Factory, a million dollar corporation.

He stated that Grover's present financial status was the result of his generosity and the extravagance of Mrs. Grover and her two daughters, Dorothy and Phyllis Cleveland.

PRESENTED TO JUDGE.

It is believed the statement referred to by Attorney Mayo is the one presented to Judge Dow Monday at a private conference.

Grover, outside the courtroom, announced today that on June 1 the Lynn factory, one of the oldest in the city, would be closed down, and that all business of the firm will be

DEFENDS HIS NAME AGAINST OLYMPIA MACRI'S CHARGES

couldn't pay your grocery bill of $4 or $5, when she said people said Johnny was making $15 a night singing? A.—Yes.

REBUKED BY COURT.

Q.—As a matter of fact, you had no money at home, did you? A.—Yes, I had money, but not for her.

Q.—But that was money you earned yourself, wasn't it? A.—I earned some.

Q.—As a matter of fact your husband only worked nine months between the time of your marriage in 1923 and his death in February, 1925, didn't he? A.—He worked more than that. He was a good husband if she didn't bother him.

Attorney Kolasky—Oh, oh! That's a good one!

State's Attorney Alling interrupted and counsel indulged in such a heated colloquy that Judge Avery silenced them both sternly, saying: "This trial has taken a long time. The court has tried to be lenient with both sides, but it will not countenance such interruptions as this. You both exceeded all rights."

Q.—You say you didn't believe your husband was meeting other girls? A.—I didn't.

Q.—Hadn't Olympia often spoken to you how Johnny was going around with other girls? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you and Olympia often cry together over the trouble Johnny had caused you both? A.—Never.

Q.—Didn't you hear your husband say he would shoot Olympia if she didn't stop bothering him about her child? A.—I did not.

Q.—You knew he carried a gun, didn't you? A.—He never carried a gun.

Q.—Didn't you see him with a gun in an automobile A.—No.

Q.—Didn't he keep a gun at home? A.—Never.

Q.—You knew he was going to sing in Norwich the night of the day he was killed, didn't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—Didn't he have a gun with him that day? A.—No.

Completing her direct testimony today, Mrs. Bagnano testified that she pressed her husbands suits every time he put them on so that he would look nice. She denied that one of his pockets was lined with leather.

She said she went to a concert at Sacred Heart Church last January to hear Johnny sing and that as a result of what was told them she and her husband left the hall by the back door.

There was earlier evidence that Olympia Macri was hunting for Johnny.

ACCUSE PLAYER

wron gman, namely Walter J. Lewis, No. 1017 Boylston street.

The Pirate catcher's chief offense against the equanimity of the hot-water fan was that Earl slapped a three-corner hit into left field in the second inning, scoring two runs and even that early sewing up, or at least basting, the game.

A loud mouthed fan took occasion thereafter during the game to remind Earl of all his past faults and when finally Smith chased a foul over toward that section, he mistook Lewis for the verbose one and a bit of a slapping affray ensued.

Smith was ejected from the game and while he was on his way to the showers, another scuffle occurred after an iron chair from one of the boxes had been dropped on his head.

In Brighton court today, Lewis appeared with his counsel, former Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell, and Judge Connolly ordered a summons to issue against Smith, returnable tomorrow, charging assault and battery.

WIDOW FACES LONG GRILLING

Mrs. Caroline Bagnano took the witness stand again today at the trial of Olympia Macri, accused of slaying "Sheik" John Bagnano, Mrs. Bagnano's husband. The widow charged that Olympia tried to induce her to be unfaithful to her husband, and proposed that she "go out" with a brother of the Macri girl. She faces a long and bitter cross-examination.

conducted at the company's factory in Stoneham.

The Lynn factory, which employs about 500 workers, will be shut down principally for reasons of economy made necessary by the depression in the shoe industry, Grover stated. He did not say whether or not the Lynn employes would be taken to work at the Stoneham plant which is owned by the company. The Lynn plant is rented, not owned, by the company.

MAYO'S STATEMENT.

During his argument Mayo stated tha tth etestimony of Lyndon V. Grover, Jr., who said he had seen his stepmother's clothing in a disordered condition and the testimony concerning the alleged boat trip from New York to Boston taken by Mrs. Grover and "Count" Paul Anatole Monte, named as co-respondent in the case, formed the basis of Grover's charges of misconduct on the part of Mrs. Grover.

He declared that the outstanding issue was the intimacy of Mrs. Eleanor Cleveland Grover with the "so-called Monte."

"Is Mrs. Thora Sawyer shielding her friend?" Mayo asked.

"Soucy, the chauffeur, says that Mrs. Grover and Monte came off the New York boat together and that Mrs. Sawyer did not come out of the passenger shed.

"The co-respondent left the boat in New York and took the midnight train to Boston, arriving at the South Station at 1:20 A. M. He says he took a cab, arriving at the pier as the passengers were emerging. He says he met Mrs. Grover and Mrs. Sawyer; further that he never made a trip on that boat except on two occasions earlier in the season.

"And yet the officers on the boat have said that they saw him late in that season. It is only fair to assume then that Monte was on the boat the night, October 29, 1924, that the room assigned to Lieutenant Monte was used by Mrs. Grover and not by Mrs. Grover and Mrs. Sawyer."

Speaking of Grover's financial difficulties, Mayo declared that the statement showed that he has had to sell his possessions and been compelled to go into debt to one bank for $30,00, anbother for $16,000 and another for $12,000, the last loan being made because he had endorsed a note for Mrs. Glover for which he

to the girls, the athletes became angry because they were not being taken seriously enough, and began taking the apartment to pieces.

They started by breaking pictures and objects of art on the mantelpiece, and then progressed to the furniture, while the hostesses pleaded in vain.

When several chairs had been more combative than her roommate, did not submit tamely to the wrecking of her home and gave battle for her household goods.

As a result, she got two black eyes, to one for her girl friend.

Kennedy ignored all the rules of college football, Miss Doherty told the police, while Driscoll showed more speed than ever he did on the cinder path as he dashed from bric-a-brac to furniture and back again, in his alleged work of destruction.

Then they left. When they had gone, and the two hostesses dug themselves out of the ruins, they say they discovered that $25 was missing.

Before the young women made complaint against their erstwhile guests, they were interviewed by the police.

It is understood that the authorities were first called in by neighborn, who heard the sounds of battle from afar and did not get any sleep that night.

'SHEIK'S' WIFE SAW OLYMPIA ON 'LOVE RIDE'

By MAXINE McBRIDE.

New Haven, Ct., May 15.—The district attorney wheeled around suddenly in his chair. It was late afternoon in the Macri trial room and witnesses of varying importance had come and gone all day. The hands of the clock marked a half hour before closing time—and the jurymen's faces bore signs of fatigue.

Then—"Carrie, Mrs. Carolina Bagnano," barked the district attorney's voice, and a pale-faced, pretty girl made her way up to the witness stand.

An excited "Oh" rippled about the courtroom, women craned their necks, and the jury straightened up with interest in their chairs.

The long-expected, dramatic climax to the prelude of impanelling jurors and examining State witnesses had been reached; the moment when Carrie's eyes encountered Olympia's over the witness stand, and the two women whose lives were so tragically interwoven about the life of a dashing knight of the cabarets, came face to face before the altar of justice.

BOND BETWEEN THEM.

Olympia looked mutely into the eyes of the other woman, and tears from time to time splashed down her cheeks, but she made no effort to check them. One hand supported her bent head, and her attitude was anxious and intent.

That there was an unexpected bond between the two women, the "Sheik's" wife made clear. One rainy night, it was Carrie who brought Olympia safely home under her umbrella, after the haunted girl-mother had been at Johnny's house beseeching him to care for her baby. In turn, the grateful Olympia offered Carrie her rubbers, and even urged Carrie to "go out" with her own brother.

Carrie gasped at that—"What do you think I am? Crazy to go out with your brother?"

Saddened and embittered, Olympia enlightened the young wife—"Your husband goes out with others."

"I don't believe it!" she told Olympia.

Carrie was made fully aware of Olympia, and later—of Olympia's baby. Gossip-wagging tongues pointed out Johnny's former sweetheart to her in the street as soon as she arrived in New Haven—a bride.

SAW FATAL RIDE START.

But as often as Olympia turned seeking footsteps up Prindis alleyway, to find Johnny and beg him to "sign" for little Lucy, so did Carrie in turn follow Olympia, purposely, and see the two get into the automobile together the time of Olympia's fateful ride.

Steadfastly, Carrie insisted that she told Olympia she would take little Lucy and care for the baby, if it could be proven that it was Johnny's child. The night of the dramatic quarrel on the Wooster street bridge, Carrie said that she told Olympia over and over that she would take her baby in.

But Olympia didn't seem to want that. Johnny was the one to claim and provide for her child, she said.

One time Carrie and her brother-in-law, John, went over to see Olympia's baby at her aunt's home. They talked matters over but came to no decision, Carrie said.

Olympia said she would "let them know" what she would do.

The last time Carrie saw Olympia, the young, unwed mother came to tell Carrie "not to bother, she would take care of things herself."

Olympia kept her promise—but in the most tragic, appalling way to which a human may resort.

Now the dashing "Sheik" is dead, Olympia stands on trial for her life, and the widowed wife tells her part in one of the saddest, three-cornered tragedies that life spells out for humans.

as well as an expert, believes that valuable information will be gleaned from a careful inspection of the wheel, the doors and the sides of the car in which the thugs operated.

BELIEVED HIDING HERE.

In some quarters there is a strong suspicion that the men concerned in the robbery are hidden in some of the human rabbit warrens in the North End.

Provided with food and drink enough for a week, they might find that safer than an attempt to slip through the police lines and try for another city.

In a week or ten days, when the excitement has died down, they may try to make a break for it. Other criminals have done that. All five thugs, according to their victims, were foreigners.

Two men in Quincy today were viewed by Cambridge inspectors and the two bank messengers and chauffeur on the chance that they might have been members of the quintet that did the Lever Brothers' job.

The men in question were arrested robbing a store in Quincy. The bank messengers said they were not the payroll robbers.

Those in the party of identification were Inspectors Nellan, Maher and Landrigan. Hobin, the money car chauffeur, Kelley and Cooney, the messengers.

Before they were taken to Quincy Cooney, Kelley and Hoban were taken to Cambridge police headquarters and shown hundreds of pictures in the Rogues' Gallery. Later they were to be taken to Boston headquarters for the same purpose. Officials of the First National Bank disclosed today that the money car contained $100,000 in addition to the $25,000 payroll of Lever Bros., when it was held up at Burleigh street and Broadway, Cambridge.

The money was protected by two locks. The thugs broke the first, but lost their nerve when the second proved difficult.

LOST MINE BELIEVED FOUND

Mad Rush of the Prospectors Starts for Zitinga, Guerrero, Mex.; Many Claims Staked

Mexico City, May 15 (I.N.S.).—The mad rush to stake out claims near what is believed to be the lost and much sought silver mine of the ancient Aztec Indians continued today in and around the town of Zitinga, in the State of Guerrero.

Last week the Real Del Monte Company, using a diamond drill, found what is said to be nearly pure silver at 1,200 feet.

The Real Del Monte Company is owned by the United States Refining and Smelting Company of Boston, which procures 17 per cent. of the world's silver supply.

Experienced miners believe that the purity of the metal proves that the long lost silver lode of the Aztecs has been found.

They point out that the crude tools of those days could only work with nearly pure metal. The world's largest silver deposits were reported found in Guerrero six months ago.

Much secrecy and mystery surrounds details of the find.

Every effort is being made to keep prospectors out of the vicinity.

DIVA SORRY SHE DIDN'T ALSO WALLOP JERITZA

London, May 15 (I.N.S.).—Bygones were not bygones today in the career of Mme. Marie Olezewska, who spat at Mme. Marie Jeritza and was "tched of it" though the tiff with the Metropolitan star cost Olezewska her contract with the Vienna opera.

Mme. Olezewska was reported considering a contract with Convent Garden. She was emphatic in her comment on the tiff which arose when the Viennese star thought Jeritza's conversation interrupted her singing in "Die Walkuere."

"I consider myself the aggrieved person," she said. "I asked her three times to desist. She refused and I spat on her. I wish I had struck her. I am not penitent."

CAILLAUX AND BRIAND TO STUDY DEBT PROBLEM

Paris, May 15 (A.P.).—Finance Minister Caillaux and Foreign Minister Briand were authorized by the French cabinet today to study the interallied debt question to find an acceptable solution.

This decision was given out officially after a long discussion and delivery of opinions by both Caillaux and Briand. Caillaux has expressed the view that the interallied debt problem must be solved to reestablish French credit. Briand is known to have been considering the debt question as part of his foreign policy, and, it was said recently, negotiations for settlement of debts to the United States would be resumed during the present month.

GIFTS TO PRIEST ON PILGRIMAGE TO ROME

A reception will be held tonight in St. Joseph's parish hall in honor of Rev. Michael J. Cuddihy, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point, who has just returned from a three months' tour of Europe. Father Cuddihy will be presented a set of Stoddard's Lectures and numerous other presents. Father Cuddihy, after the pilgrimage to Rome, went from Italy with a number of other priests to Egypt, the Holy Land, France, England and Ireland.

DIVORCE GIVEN DUKE 20 YEARS AGO VALID

New York, May 15 (A.P.)—Supreme Court Justice Giegerich today dismissed the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Lillian N. Duke against James Buchanan Duke tobacco magnate.

She had raised the question of the finality of a decree granted to Mr. Duke after a trial in New Jersey twenty years ago. The justice held this decree must be recognized as final.

ROCKEFELLER CAKE 7 FT. HIGH

(Photo by International Newsreel)

Wonderful wedding cake which graced the table at the wedding of Miss Abby Rockefeller, richest heiress in the world, to David Meriwether Milton, $5,000-a-year law clerk. The cake stood several feet high and was elaborately designed. It was cut with a silver knife and pieces presented to guests as souvenirs of the wedding. Insets are the bride and groom, who will honeymoon in Europe. They will take their own speed car abroad and the bride will drive it.

ABBY STARTS HONEYMOON IN 15-CENT TAXI

New York, May 15.—Starting their honeymoon in a fifteen-cent taxicab—five cents for every one-quarter mile thereafter—Abby "Babe" Rockefeller, the twenty-one-year-old richest heiress in the world and her twenty-five-year-old $5,000-a-year law clerk husband, David Meriwether Milton, were figuratively lost to the world today.

Where they were honeymooning, those who knew would not tell.

They will return to New York tomorrow and depart for Europe. They will remain abroad four months. When they return they will settle down to housekeeping in a small apartment.

JOHN D. SHEDS A TEAR.

The mystery of the young couples' whereabouts was second to the mystery among the Rockefeller-Milton friends and general public as to the amount of the check which the richest man in the world, John D. Rockefeller, pressed into the bride's hand during the wedding ceremony at the home of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the bride's father.

The latter declined to make public a list of the gifts, nor were they shown to the 1,200 invited guests. Among the guests were Governor Al Smith and Chauncey Depew. Most of the guests were business suits. John D. Rockefeller, eighty-six, grandfather of the bride, was one of the most interested spectators. Toward the end of the ceremony he raised a handkerchief and wiped away a vagrant tear.

The Episcopal marriage service was used, with the words "obey him" and serve him" eliminated, as requested by the bride.

MOTHER KISSES BRIDE.

The most valuable present received by the bride was a diamond brooch from Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, divorced wife of Harold F. McCormick of Chicago and a daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Sr.

The bride's father gave her a pearl necklace. Her mother gave her a silver service. Her brother, Nelson, gave a lace table set, with serviettes to match; Lawrence, another brother, gave her a box of writing paper, and Winthrop gave her a clock, one of a dozen she received.

"BIT OF DRIFTWOOD" BRIDE SHOOTS SELF

Worcester, May 15.—Writing a letter in which she referred to herself as nothing but a "bit of driftwood," Mrs. Zitha Bruinsma, 23 years old, of No. 4 Rycroft road, shot herself below the heart with her husband's revolver shortly after he had gone to work today. She is dying at the City Hospital. The couple came here from Hanover, where they were married on Easter Sunday.

CAMERAS UNDER BAN AT TRIAL OF SHEPHERD

Chicago, May 15 (A.P.).—Cameras, typewriters and telegraph instruments will be barred from the court room during the trial of William D. Shepherd, charged with the murder of his foster son, William Nelson McClintock.

Typewriters and telegraph apparatus will be permitted set up in an adjoining room.

First steps in the actual preparation of the trial have been taken by Judge Thomas J. Lynch, who will preside. He has instructed his clerk to send out a call for a venire of 100 men to report Monday when the trial is set to start.

Attorneys for Shepherd said they thought the trial would be completed in three weeks. They anticipated no difficulty in picking a jury despite opinions in the criminal court building that four weeks might be spent in selecting jurors and another four weeks in the actual trial.

6,500 KILLED IN CHINA QUAKE LASTING AN HOUR

Peking, May 15 (A.P.).—The famine relief commission here received an estimate today that 6,500 persons were killed in the earthquake at Talifu in Yunnan Province on March 16.

The report said shocks lasted for an hour, wrecking nearly every house in the city. One out of every 18 persons is reported dead over an area of six counties.

Fire completed the destruction. The number of persons destitute is placed at 100,000.

Manila, May 15 (A.P.).—Ten persons were killed by a series of earth quakes in the Province of Oriental Negros today. A number of Muscavado sugar mills were badly cracked but only the central building was damaged.

Washington, May 15.—An earth quake of moderate intensity was recorded today on the seismograph of Georgetown University. It began at 7:07 and lasted until about 8 a. m.

NEGRO LYNCHED AFTER BEING FREED IN COURT

Orlando, Fla., May 15 (A.P.).—Sheriff Frank Karel of Orange County was advised by telephone from Sanford, that Jack West, negro, had been taken from a train and lynched, near Longwood, Seminole County. The body, riddled with bullets, was found tied to a tree.

West was arrested about two weeks ago, charged with "breaking and entering" a house, the owner of which accused West of attacking his 8-year-old daughter. West was acquitted.

NEGRO NOW HAS ONLY 'PATCH OF BLACK'

Emery Francis Winslow of Norwell was told by his physician 40 years ago that if he lived long enough his mother would not know him, for he would have turned white.

Today, Emery is seventy-one years old, still going strong and turning whiter every day, and the physician's prophecy seems to be fulfilled as the only black left on his body is a small area under his eyes and a spot on his right leg. The rest of him is as fair as the whitest Anglo-Saxon.

Vitiligo, as the strange malady which causes the gradual change of color, and such a complete change is extremely rare, according to specialists.

Emery has never married. He says, what's the use, when the woman sooner or later begins to throw dishes at her husband. He said he preferred to eat off them in peace rather than have them thrown at him. "But you never can tell," he said, as he swung his axe over his shoulder, and prepared to chop down a few trees to finish his day's work. "I am only seventy-one, and there is lot of time to marry yet, but ——," and off he walked with a stride that would make Weston jealous.

In spite of the fact that in a few years Emery will be entirely white, he is proud of his African parentage and vigorously maintains that he will always be a "colored man" regardless of his color.

Vitiligo in Mild Form Frequent Among Negroes

Vitiligo, according to Dr. Harvey P. Towle, Boston skin specialist, is a malady which affects the color of the skin caused by the disappearance of the natural color pigment. Mild cases among the negroes, causing small white spots, he said, were not uncommon, but cases such as that of Emery F. Winslow of Norwell, whose entire skin has changed color, are extremely rare, Dr. Towle says.

ONLY A 'BLOT' LEFT ON CHALK NEGRO

Emery Winslow, "Old Reliable" at the Norwell town farm, hasn't much evidence to back up his proud claim to African ancestry. Vitiligo, a rare disease, is gradually turning him white. A spot on his face and another on his leg—all that is left of his forebears.

THREE PERISH AS FIRE DESTROYS AIRPLANE

Trenton, Neb., May 15 (A.P.).—Three persons were burned to death when an airplane, piloted by Lloyd L. Hefling of San Francisco, fell and burst into flames. Hefling's passengers were Mrs. Harry Gibson and Floyd Eakins of McCook, Neb.

Hefling, it was reported, was preparing to execute a loop when one of the wings of his plane collapsed, sending the machine to the ground, death overtaking the occupants before they could be extricated from the burning wreckage.

"AIDA" TO BE GIVEN IN CONCERT FORM

What promises to be a glorious conclusion of Boston's Civic Music Festival will be the performance of Verdi's "Aida" in concert form, at the Boston Opera House tonight and tomorrow night.

The production will have a gigantic chorus seated on the stage, composed of "actually all the leading choral organizations of Boston. The orchestra similarly has been recruited from the various symphonic organizations.

There will be a ballet, trained by Miss Marie Paparello, and in the second act an elaborate pageant will be presented.

Merry distinguished soloists, including Wellington Smith and Rose Zuhlkan, will sing the leading roles. George Dunham is the conductor.

Chestnut Hill Show to Be Big Pageant

Affair Scheduled for May Holiday Will Be Most Brilliant in 22 Years

Betty Alden

WHEN THE FIRST BUGLE blows, early on the morning of May 30, for the opening event of the Chestnut Hill horse show out at Longwood Cricket Club grounds, there commences a sport pageant as brilliant, both as regards owners and horses, as society may see hereabouts.

FOR SOME twenty-two years well known owners of equally well known horses have put on a show, but the affair scheduled for the May holiday, a large and important gathering, is a far cry indeed from the show's early beginnings.

THEN, SO history says, it was really an inter-family affair, out in Chestnut Hill. Owners of blue-ribboners said to one another, "Let us have a horse show." And they got together in the grounds of the Richard Middlecott Saltonstall estate for a friendly contest.

THAT SMALL and intimate show was a great success. Later the yearly show was staged at the Edwin Sibley Websters' Chestnut Hill place, at the Montgomery Rollins place, and more recently still on the broad open field of the Cricket Club.

MANY OF the same families whose equine stars garnered honors in the earlier days are still prominent in the show ring. There are the Andrew Adies, the Edwin S. Websters, the George Weeks and the Charles S. Birds, Jr.

EVERYONE KNOWS of the Andrew Adie horses, particularly of Melody, who, with either Miss Andrea Adie or Miss Rosamond Adie (who is now Mrs. Robert Almy) in the saddle, is consistently a winner whenever shown.

THE WILLIAM ALMY family, too of which Robert Almy is a younger member, is always brilliantly represented on the tanbark in gatherings of prize winning horses.

MISS MARY LOUISE ALMY, the daughter, with Miss Andrea Adie and Mrs. Almy, make up as clever a trio of women riders as ever put a hunter over the jumps or through his paces.

THE HOMER BORINGS, Miss Murial Saltonstall daughter of the late Richard Middlecott Saltonstall, Miss Alice Thorndike, the Reginald W. Birds, William Stuart Forbes, Miss Alice Stuart and Mrs. Gardiner H. Pitts always take home ribbons.

YOUNGER SOCIETY has its daring riders. The children's saddle ponies and the junior jumping classes delight the galleries always. Miss Patricia and Miss Betty Bird, small daughters of the Reginald W. Birds, Miss Betty Kimpton, Sidney W. Winslow, Jr., hold their own gallantly.

THERE IS AN interesting array of cups and trophies. From the Richard M. Saltonstall fund for children's horsemanship classes, a first prize cup is given to children living in Chestnut Hill.

FOR THE children's pony class there is the Francis W. Lee Memorial Fund which gives a cup to children under sixteen who ride their ponies. The Montgomery Rollins Memorial Cup for saddle horses and the Nora Saltonstall Memorial Cup for hunters are rewards eagerly sought.

CHARLES SUMNER BIRD, JR., James G. Marshall and Allan Forbes occupy the judges stand in the centre of the ring. The committee includes these well known horsemen: George S. West, A. Winsor Weld, Andrew Adie, Prescott Bigelow and Leverett Saltonstall.

ALSO W. EUGENE McGREGOR, Clarke T. Baldwin, Elmer Jared Bliss, the Edwin Sibley Websters, both junior and senior, George Frost, Louis K. Liggett and Chester A. Howe.

SOME OF THE JUST mentioned men and others of the sporting set are also interested in the Metropolitan Horse Show which precedes the Chestnut Hill event by just a week.

BAYARD TUCKERMAN, JR., John E. Thayer, Jr., William Almy, Jr., Albert C. Burrage, Jr., Josiah P. Westcott, Jr., are some of the entrants, and there is a cup or trophy for every class.

TEAMS OF THREE hunters and sporting tandems will excite a lively interest, as will the four-in-hands. And there are, as well, all the other classes—roadsters, harness horses, polo ponies and saddle mounts.

IT IS AN ALL day affair, on the Charles River Speedway at Allston. The first class is to enter the ring at a quarter of ten in the morning, and the midday is punctuated by a luncheon for exhibitors. The judging continues throughout the afternoon.

Mrs. Clarence Ransom Edwards, wife of Major Edwards, now actively at work in forwarding the Endowment Fund for the American Legion. Mrs. Edwards is also the founder of the Disabled ex-Service Men's Shop in Boylston street, a work of which she may be justly proud.

THE STATELY assembly room of No. 46 Beacon street was filled to overflowing yesterday morning when Dr. Sarah Ellen Palmer, F. A. C. S., gave a talk on Hawaii, the lovely mid-Pacific possession of Uncle Sam which Dr. Palmer speaks of as the "Forty-ninth Star in the Flag."

IT WAS THE occasion of the Thursday morning assemblage at the Women's Republican Club, and a delighted audience followed Dr. Palmer's words, and listened later to the plaintive Hawaiian music sung by natives of the islands.

LANDS RUM AS COAST GUARD WAITS

clash between alleged rum runners, were told of by the Coast Guard captain in testimony.

KNEW HE WAS "RUNNER."

Acquaintanceship with Brown, alleged to have been a leader in a rum-running band operating darlingly along the North Shore, was admitted by Captain Gove.

"How long have you known him?" asked Attorney James A. Sentry.

"About a year and a half," the captain replied.

"When did you meet him?" "I met him on a boat. He used to ride around Swampscott and Nahant."

"Do you know what this Harry Brown does for a living?" "I knew that one of the Browns was connected in the fish business in Lynn."

"Did you know that Harry Brown was the supposed leader of a Lynn rum-running band?" "I did."

"Have you any record of a telephone call at the coast guard station on November 27?" "I have. There was a telephone call at 11.45 p. m."

GETS PHONE TIP.

"Tell the board about this call." "The party calling asked for the captain. I answered and a man's voice said, 'Do you want to catch a load of booze tonight?' I asked who was talking and the voice said, 'This is Brown.' I asked, 'What makes you think a load will be landed?' Brown replied, 'I know, that's all.' Brown told me that he would come over and get me in a machine and I told him to come ahead. I thought it funny that Brown should call me up and I remarked to my mate, 'There must be something wrong with the gang.' Brown came with his car and, with six other coast guardsmen, I went with him to Galloupe's Point."

"Who was with Brown?" "His brother Fred and his father."

MAGNUS PULLS GUN.

"Where did you go?" "We went up Pearl road to Galloupe's Point and stopped. Brown and I left the car. I left Guardsman Winters with the other men and Brown and I went to the point to look for the booze. We searched around for a while and found nothing. I said to Brown, 'What kind of a game are you working?' Brown insisted that booze was being landed. We went back to take a look at the car, and when we returned through Pearl road to the point we found that during absence, forty cases had been landed on the beach. A few minutes later, Brown came to me and told me that John Mangus had spied our (Brown's) car. We went back to the car and Mangus pulled a gun in Brown's face and said: 'Damn you, Brown, I'll kill you and you'll never bother me again.' Winters, my No. 1 man, told Mangus to put up the gun—that he was a Coast Guardsman—and when he wouldn't, Winters seized the gun and took it away from Mangus."

WOMAN DROVE AWAY.

"What did you do then?" "I took Magnus over to his car. He had a woman in it. I threatened to place her under arrest and Magnus said, 'She hasn't got anything to do with this.' I decided to let her go, and she drove the car away. If I had known she could drive, I would have taken her along too."

"What did you do then?" "I called the Swampscott police and had Magnus detained at the station for the night."

"And then what happened?" "Then I called the prohibition headquarters and an officer came down and took Magnus to Boston."

"Did you ever go riding with Brown?" "I did, on numerous occasions."

"Did the police ever bother Brown?" "They did. Every time I rode with Brown, the police followed and stopped the car."

"Now, on the night of April 4, were you out in a boat off Galloupe's and Little's Points?" "I was."

"Did you ever see the police patrolling these Swampscott beaches and the point?" "Every time I went there, at least two police officers were patrolling the beaches and watching the points."

CALL FROM QUINN.

"How far away from shore was your boat on the night of April 4?" "About 200 or 300 yards. The night was dark; there was no moon shining, but the water was calm."

"Did you ever have a talk with Chief Quinn?" "On April 4, about 8:30, the chief called me up and asked me if the Coast Guard would co-operate with the police. I told him we would. He asked me if I would send a boat out. I said I would, but I told him to caution his officers against firing at the boat."

SENATOR UNDERWOOD IS PLANNING TO RETIRE

Washington, May 15.—Oscar W. Underwood, Senator from Alabama and a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination before two national conventions, has under consideration the question of retiring from office when his term expires on March 4, 1927.

The Senator said today that he would not reach a definite decision until he had talked the situation over with friends in Alabama.

TWO STUDENTS SEIZED AS BURGLARS

Fitchburg, May 15.—A cut on his hand, sustained when, it is alleged, he broke the window of the drug store of Arthur E. Gauvreau, led to the arrest of Ronald P. Abernethy, twenty years old, of No. 178 Ocean avenue, New London, Ct., and another boy, fifteen years old, both students at Cushing Academy, Ashburnham.

They are charged with having stolen goods worth $250 from the store in the night time. Abernethy's companion is Shirley Wynne, son of a prominent New York physician.

Abernethy, arraigned in Fitchburg court today, pleaded guilty and was held in $500 bail until tomorrow. He also will be charged with having a loaded revolver. Wynne will be in the juvenile court tomorrow.

They were arrested after a bit of detective work by Corporal Foster and Officer John F. Mclaughlin of the State Police, who found the broken window stained with blood and bearing bloody finger prints. Deciding the break was the work of boys, they started to search for one with a bandaged finger or hand.

The stolen goods were found buried in the woods at a spot to which the officers say Abernethy conducted them.

36 THEATRES IN GORDON CHAIN BOUGHT OUT

Sale of the thirty-six Gordon theatres in Greater Boston and other parts of New England will be made next Monday, it was announced in New York today. The purchaser will be the Paramount Pictures Corporation.

Negotiations have been underway for some weeks, but public admission of the coming sale was made for the first time today by Harold Franklin, in charge of the theatre department of the Paramount Company.

The sum of $10,000,000 is involved, it is said, of which Nathan Gordon will receive $2,000,000 for his interests.

WELLS PICKED FOR A DEBATE WITH BRYAN

English Novelist Drawn for Defense of Scopes in Evolution Row

Dayton, Tenn., May 15 (I.N.S.).—H. G. Wells, famous British novelist, will be drawn into the ranks of the defense for Professor J. T. Scopes for alleged violation of the State anti-evolution law, it was announced today by Professor John B. Neale, one of the defense attorneys.

Wells will be asked to debate with William Jennings Bryan, who has tendered his services to the prosecution on the subject of evolution.

The leading scientists and educators who will be called to appear as witnesses are: Dr. H. A. Morgan, president of the University of Tennessee; Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Nicholas Murray Butler, Dr. Lovejoy, of Johns Hopkins, John Dewey, Dr. Mayor and Dr. William Haggard, president of the American Medical Society.

"As one of the attorneys for the defense, I welcome Mr. Bryan's announcement he will appear in the anti-evolution test case for the prosecution," Dr. Neale said today.

"We desire, however, to say that those who look upon our effort to have anti-evolution law declared unconstitutional as a fight in behalf of any theory of evolution greatly mistake the real issues involved.

"The question is not whether evolution is true or untrue, but whether it involves the freedom of teaching; or, what is more important, the freedom of learning.

"We regard it as equally un-American and unconstitutional whether it is kingly and ecclesiastical authority or legislative power that would attempt to limit the human mind in its inquiry after truth.

BRYAN SPEAKS AT HARVARD ON 'DEMOCRACY'

Commoner Insists Reception at Brown Was Most Cordial

the only person to recognize him, outside of a Boston Evening American representative, and for his pains was permitted to carry three heavy bags the entire length of the station for a two-bit tip.

Bryan took a taxi to the Hotel Bellevue, which, quaintly enough, is at present the headquarters of the Unitarians, who hold no briefs for the outspoken Presbyterian from Florida.

On the way he denied to the American representative that he had been the subject of a demonstration by Brown students, whom he addressed under the auspices of the students' forum.

In fact, Bryan declared, with a careless gesture, that he had in truth received a "wonderful reception," and that the stories of booing and hissing were "misrepresentations."

"The growls from the Bear, were growls of approval," said the Great Commoner, glibly. "I could have stayed until midnight so enthused were they over my address. As a matter of fact, I retired from the platform only because I thought the boys were tired.

"There were a few facetious youngsters here and there," he added, "and they occasionally fired questions at me from the body of the hall. I had asked that all questions be written and signed. The question hour lasted well over an hour, and when I left Providence some of the students escorted me to the station."

PRAISES COOLIDGE.

He praised President Coolidge for his economy program, and declared he will win universal admiration if he disapproves of warlike demonstrations on Armistice Day. He also enthused over the President's stand on prohibition enforcement, although refusing to discuss the present blockade of Rum Row.

Despite his 65 years Bryan appeared to be in the best of health, and seemed to enjoy his first visit to Boston in six years. He leaves tonight for New York, and next week will attend the General Assembly of Presbyterians at Columbus, Ohio. He speaks at Harvard as the guest of the Christian Association of the college.

Mr. Bryan's version of the incident follows:

"I spoke for two hours to a crowded house and the audience was very receptive. The applause was frequent and at the close continued until I rose and bowed my acknowledgement. I then took up the questions that had been sent up and spent an hour and a half answering them."

EXPLAINS BROWN INCIDENT.

Referring to the question which a student, George L. Cassidy, had asked, Mr. Bryan said:

"Finally, one man arose. He was not very young and I did not know until after the meeting was over that he was a student. He asked me several questions which I answered and then he began to argue his views. The audience was restless at this interruption and I finally suggested that I would turn the audience over to him and let him say what he wanted to say—and the meting adjourned.

"There was no hissing and no booing, at least, not that reached my ears."

"I answered that question," he added, "very fully by presenting the Christian ideal as one that had the endorsement of nineteen centuries and was higher than the evolutionary ideal or than any individual ideal. I also took pains to point out what the effect of the evolutionary ideal is.

"I devoted quite a while to answering that young man's questions and only turned the audience over to him after he proceeded to present his own views instead of asking questions."

POLICE SURGEON SHOT BY THUGS IN CHICAGO

Chicago, May 15 (A.P.)—Dr. Charles D. Wall, police surgeon, was probably fatally shot today by one of two robbers, who held him up as he was putting his automobile in his garage. The assailants fled without searching him. While police sought them, they also searched for two men who, a few hours earlier, accompanied James Coyne, thug, in an attack on Daniel Parry, former municipal court bailiff. Parry, under indictment in connection with a $1,000,000 war savings stamp counterfeit plot, was wounded in an exchange of shot with his assailants, and shot Coyne, who may die.

MISTINGUETT FIRES AT HER U. S. PARTNER

Owner of 'Million Dollar Legs' In Row With Earl Leslie in Paris Villa

Paris, May 15 (Universal).—Deep mystery surrounds a strange near-drama at Bougival near Paris when Mistinguett, French musical comedy actress, famous for her beautiful legs, is alleged to have fired two shots at Earl Leslie, her American dancing partner, in the Casino de Paris show.

Leslie, who accompanied Mistinguett on her recent tour of America, rented Mistinguett's country home at Bougival several months ago. According to report, the couple had a violent quarrel there yesterday, culminating in the actress seizing a gun and firing twice at Leslie, missing him both times.

Both are silent as to the affair, appearing today as usual at the Casino, but the prefecture of police confirms that such a report was made by the Bougival police. Nevertheless, it is said no action will be taken, as no complaint was filed.

TO DISCONTINUE B. & M. FREIGHT LINE IN ACTON

Announcement was made today that the Boston & Maine Railroad on June 1 will discontinue the tri-weekly freight service on the Nashua & Acton Railroad. The service will be stopped in accordance with authorization given the company by the Interstate Commerce Commission on April 8. It also was announced that passenger service on the Easthampton branch will be discontinued June 1.

Irish Farmer Dies at 115

Belfast, May 15 (A.P.).—Thomas Shannon died today at Ashford, Wicklow, at the reputed age of 115.

He was a land leaguer and helped plough Charles Stewart Parnell's farms when the famous Nationalist leader was in jail.

'MILLION-DOLLAR LEG' GIRL IN ROW

Mistinguett, French musical comedy favorite, famous for her beautiful legs, fired two shots at Earl Leslie, her American dancing partner, according to a report to the police. A violent quarrel culminated in the actress turning a gun upon Leslie. The "Million-dollar legs" beauty missed him both times and they appeared today as usual in the Casino de Paris show.

'JOHNNY REB' OF 80 IS LEGION MERCURY

"Daddy" Poyntz, Favorite at Army Base, Going to Dallas With Bay State Message

The Springtime call surged in the veins of "Daddy" Poyntz today, and "the Johnny Reb, nuh, who never surrendered, nuh," girded up his army plus fours and prepared to go back to the dear old Dixie land.

When the midnight choo-choo leaves for Alabam' and points South at a non-midnight hour tomorrow morning from the South Station, "Daddy" Poyntz, who is Nat Poyntz, veteran of life and half a dozen wars, will be the most illustrious and most unsung passenger aboard.

Only Confederate veteran on the active rolls of the United States Army, oldest American Legion member, only living member of Morgan's Riders and the best pal the young bucks at the South Boston Army Base ever had, "Daddy" Poyntz is turning his eightieth year.

Tomorrow he will trek South via the Federal Express and, arrayed in the faded Confederate uniform, he will attend the Confederate reunion in Dallas, Tex., which opens next Tuesday.

It will be the first such reunion the "Grand Old Man of the Army Base" ever attended, and it will bring him into the company of his brother, Ollie Poyntz of Dallas, for the first time in forty years.

As the oldest American Legion member—he is a member of Francis X. Kane post of Dorchester—he will carry with him a letter from the State adjutant of the Massachusetts Legion to the State adjutant of the Legion in Texas.

DRUG ADDICTS ESCAPE FROM BRIDGEWATER

Bridgewater, May 15.—Manning Haley of Lynn and Arthur Galbin of Boston, patients at the State Farm Hospital here, escaped early today. The men were being treated as drug addicts. Galbin, who had been at the farm before, was placed in the institution April 2. Haley was transferred from Salem April 23.

BULLARD TELLS OF ERROR BY GENERAL

Discloses How French Mistake Cost Lives of Entire A. E. F. Battalion

Ever hear how a French general's mistake of judgment cost the lives of an entire American battalion during the World War?

No, and there are scores of other secrets and inside stories of the A. E. F. you never will know, unless you read the First Published Narrative of an American Army Commander in France, which begins on Sunday in the Boston Sunday Advertiser and will be continued commencing next Monday in THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN.

The author is Major-General Robert Lee Bullard, U. S. A.

Forty-four of Robert Lee Bullard's 65 years have been given to the service of his country.

Born in the atmosphere of war—Youngsboro, Ala., Jan. 15, 1861—he has never long been out of it. Graduate of West Point, veteran of the Spanish American War, the Philippine Insurrection and the trouble on the Mexican Border, General Bullard was Pershing's "right hand."

We have been hearing about the World War from observers, special commissioners, free lances, propagandists, persons who were on the outside looking in.

Here is the story of one who was on the inside, looking on. Here is one author who might say of his narrative of the American Army in France, "part of which I was, and all of which I saw."

Your knowledge of the World War will be largely hearsay unless and until you read Major-General Bullard's revelations.

They start on Sunday—the day after tomorrow—in The Boston Sunday Advertiser, New England's greatest Sunday newspaper.

They will be continued on Monday next, in THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN.

Thenceforward, on week-days in The BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN and on Sundays in the Boston Sunday Advertiser, until—all too soon, you will say—the distinguished author comes to the end of his absorbing story.

Begin with General Bullard on Sunday!

Stay with him on Monday and throughout the week!

22 TRAINS TAKE SHRINERS TO SPRINGFIELD

Thousands in Parade at Dedication of Children's Hospital

Springfield, May 15.—Thousands of Shriners are here today, brought into Springfield on twenty-two special trains, for the dedication of the New England unit of the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children.

Shortly after daybreak the first of the trains arrived and one after another the delegations from fifteen New England temples pulled into the station.

Mayor Freeland P. Kendrick of Philadelphia and Governor Fuller are the principal speakers at the dedicatory exercises while 3,000 uniformed Shriners are expected to march in the parade which will take place in connection with the dedication.

DAWES PLAN IS CALLED PEPPER POULTICE

Former Treasury Official Says It Merely Gives Breathing Space for Opposing Forces

Philadelphia, May 15 (A.P.)—The operation of the Dawes plan and international debts in their relation to world peace were discussed today by speakers before the annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

Referring to the Dawes plan as "a poultice with a sprinkling of red pepper, the whole laid upon several sores," Oscar T. Crosby, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, declared the plan "did nothing more than give breathing space within which new alignments of opposing forces might be made. Grave material interests and violent national passions are involved in a status established only on paper, and now threatened on many sides."

Discussing international debts, Dr. Herbert Adams Gibbons, Princeton University, said the United States, as the principal creditor of Germany, eventually would be compelled not only to take the initiative in solving the problem of interallied debts, but also to adopt a "hold and clear-cut" policy in regard to the reparations issue.

GRAIN MOVEMENT AT MONTREAL RESUMED

Montreal, May 15.—Canada's national grain clearing house, Montreal, has swung into action for the open water season of export activity with vessels lined up to attack the accumulation of 10,175,000 bushels, by Wednesday's check-up of the Harbor Commissioners. Although the rated capacity of terminal granaries is 12,500,000 bushels, so that only about 2,000,000 bushels of capacity remains to be taken up, no congestion is expected by authorities here.

CUBAN LEGISLATOR SHOT IN HAVANA

Havana, May 15.—Representative Jose Cano was shot and killed shortly after midnight this morning as he was leaving the Fronton Jai Alai Building. The assassin escaped in an automobile.

ARBUCKLE MAKES SURE IT'S SAFE TO MARRY

Hollywood, Cal., May 15.—Roscoe Arbuckle, former film comedian, will make another start toward the altar with Doris Deane in Pasadena, Saturday night, it is announced. The ceremony has been postponed several times, the last time because the French law, under which Minta Durfee Arbuckle obtained her divorce last year, would not permit the former actor to marry until after April 8.

DAUGHTER OF "RICHEST MAN" IS DIVORCED

London, May 15 (A.P.)—Alfred Haxton, a business man, today was awarded a divorce from his wife, Leah, on the ground of misconduct with Carlyle Blackwell, an American motion picture actor. Mrs. Haxton is the only daughter of the late Barnett Barnato, South African diamond magnate, who was credited with being one of the richest men in the world. The Haxtons were married in America in 1916.

FRANKLIN K. LANE'S DAUGHTER GETS DIVORCE

San Francisco, May 15.—Mrs. Nancy Lane Kaufman, daughter of the late Franklin L. Lane, secretary of the interior under President Wilson, was granted a divorce here from Philip C. Kaufman, clubman of Washington. Desertion was the charge.

Mrs. Kaufmans were married in Washington, April 20, 1920.

TWO OF TRIPLETS IN BABY INCUBATOR DIE

Montreal, May 15 (I.N.S.).—Two of the triplets born to Mrs. K. B. Sutherland and placed in an incubator at Montreal Women's Hospital died. The boy survivor was reported as doing well today.

"FREDDIE THE SHEIK": Get into trouble with free tickets to the show. See Boston Sunday Advertiser.

BOY LEFT IN ROWBOAT IS FOUND DROWNED

Lake Hopatcong, N. J., May 15.—Wilson H. Stockhower, thirteen, was drowned while fishing here. His father, Robert, left him alone in a rowboat for half an hour and when he returned found the craft capsized one hundred yards from shore. Grapplers recovered the body four hours later. Coroner Joseph Voelker gave a verdict of accidental death.

STRAW HATS MAKE 1925 BOW IN BOSTON

GAY BANDS AN BROAD BRIMS FOR 1925

The American man today celebrates his emancipation from fashions in felt by donning his Summer "straw." And by the same token your Boston man about town will, this year, get more straw for his money than ever before. This means, when fashions in straw are discussed, that the prevailing styles on the Tremont street parade all feature brims almost sombrero-ic in width.

There is uncanny logic in the hatters' argument for wider brims. They maintain that our present tendency to wide trousers and closely fitting clothes requires a wide brim to sustain the sense of proportion in the masculine ensemble and so convinced are they of their opinion that he will be a brave man indeed, who will ask for a "peanut" model and expect to find it in the Hub.

Inquiry among the leading hatters on Washington street elicited the fact that the conservative black or tan band on straw hats is almost entirely replaced this year by those of brighter hue. Bands are featured in club, college and fraternity colors and if the purchaser has no affiliations with any of these, the respective stores are equipped with enough varieties to give him a colored band all his own.

Sennets, in both plain and saw-toothed edge styles, are piled high in every store, ready for today's invasion and their prices remain about that of last year. There are Panamas aplenty, whose shape this season are of the stiff crown model with here and there a "pinch crown" style shown.

Altogether, the straw hat season of 1925 looks as if it will be the most colorful and conspicuous of any of its predecessors.

Extreme contrasts to the styles of last year were noticed as the bell rang on the opening of the straw hat season today. Broad brims are the prevailing mode for 1925. The picture shows representatives of five leading Boston hat shops displaying the newest designs.

GARNISHEE AGAINST EX-KLAN CHIEF ISSUED

Indianapolis, May 15.—A writ of garnishment against the personal property of D. C. Stephenson, former grand-dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, said to be held by Ira M. Holmes, one of Stephenson's attorneys, was issued by Superior Judge James M. Leathers.

The writ was granted on the request of counsel for Mrs. Nettie Stephenson Brehm of Poteau, Okla., who recently filed suit against Stephenson for judgment of $17,000 for support of Catherine Stephenson, said by Mrs. Brehm to be the child of Stephenson.

to leak from minerals and rocks and come within our reach."

Many things happen in science that couldn't happen if this earth were only 6,000 years old as was once believed. It took millions of years for evolution to change a creature as big as a fox with seven toes, into the horse of today.

It takes 240,000,000 years for helium gas to become available. It will take our sun 100,000,000 more years to cool off.

Nature is in no hurry.

MONEY GOES to money, and if you understand business you can easily get capital to develop your enterprise. The other day, for instance, Mr. Edward L. Doheny sold his Mexican oil properties to a branch of the Standard Oil. He now organizes a new company, of a million shares, "no par value," to develop properties in the West.

Does the new company have to start out and work up from the bottom? Hardly. Mr. Doheny told his friends that he would start operations with a cash capital of $85,000,000, and all of this is "new money," money from the East brought in to "develop the West."

"THERE'S GOLD in them mountains," the old prospector used to say. There is. If you know where to find it. But there's a good deal more gold in those oil wells if you know how to locate them and, apparently, Mr. Doheny does know.

GOVERNOR McLEAN of North Carolina, means to make the roads 100 per cent. useful. His plan, in connection with a high-power radio station operated by the State, is to send out to all schoolhouses such news as rural communities, their farmers, business men, etc., especially want. Information concerning the State will be emphasized.

The State's engineers and the engineering faculty of the North Carolina State College are working on the problem. This should interest the Governors of other States. To use new inventions promptly, using public power and money in the work, is to hurry on the work of civilization. Take away the work of the last 100 years, and where would the world be?

SHOE SAVES MAN AND WIFE OVERCOME BY GAS

New York, May 15.—A shoe thrown through the window an instant before he lapsed into unconsciousness from gas poisoning saved the life of Dominick Basile of Williamsburg, and may result in the saving of his wife's life, although she is in a critical condition.

Mrs. Basile arose to heat some water. Half an hour later Basile was roused by a fit of coughing and was amazed at not being enough to smell gas and realized he was being overcome. With a desperate effort he crawled for his shoe and [illegible] through the window.

DUKE OF ALBA WILL DIVIDE UP ESTATES

New York, May 15.—Owners of Long Island estates who have entertained the Duke of Alba were much interested in today's news from Salamanca, Spain, that he plans to cut up two of his estates and apportion them among 400 students on a deferred payment plan. He is said to have been inspired by the principles of democracy to divide some of his estates and hopes his example would be followed by others of the landed gentry. The duke is a cousin of King Alfonso.

1,000 IRISH TROOPS IN SURPRISE MOVEMENT

London, May 15 (A.P.)—News agency dispatches from Cork, Ireland, say something of a sensation has been caused by reports that more than 1,000 Irish Free State troops, operating with civil guards, made an encircling movement over a wide area.

They are closely inspecting certain people and premises, the report says. It is rumored that the action is in connection with the seizing in 1923 of unarmed Irish soldiers at Queenstown.

HOUGHTON & DUTTON EMPLOYES AT PARTY

Houghton & Dutton employes today were unanimously in agreement that the annual prize costume party conducted by the Houghton & Dutton Mutual Relief Association in Faneuil Hall was the most successful of years. # "Back in Prison—Why?" by DONALD LOWRIE

Amazing Story of a Man's Struggle Against Temptations That Pulled Him Down to Die in a Cell

"A beautiful girl, scantily clad in diaphanous blue, who stood laughing before him."

Photo posed for the Boston Evening American by Paul Porter playing in "Boss Mavin" at the Subject, and Myrtle Lane, playing in the Mass-Box Revue at the Colonial.

Back in prison after nearly fourteen years of freedom, Donald Lowrie wonders "Why?" and he shudders as he hears the tap, tap, tap of hammers driving nails into the plain wooden coffin of a convict whose hand he had clasped twenty minutes earlier. While still depressed with the thought—"men are worse than beasts," he is visited by Fremont Older, the man who had urged the writing of his earlier book, "My Life in Prison." Older asked him to tell why he was back in a cell, "Not for yourself," said Older. "You don't count; none of us do, as individuals; but there ought to be a moral in it, especially if you will lay bare your innermost secrets and analyze yourself truly." And so, sitting in the rays of the life-giving Arizona sun, a victim of his own weakness and slowly dying of tuberculosis, Donald Lowrie tells of the road of sin and shame which led him back to a felon's cell. His first step was in meeting a former prisoner and going on a party with him. He meets a girl, Estelle, and is strongly attracted to her. He quarrels with her, but they make up and Lowrie drinks heavily. He then meets "Edith," a San Francisco society girl who seeks his company. Another ex-convict, Bert Holman, appeals for aid and Lowrie meets his wife, Ruth. The ex-convict goes on a lecture tour, and, returning, pays Estelle a surprise visit. After three days of drunken debauchery Lowrie goes back to writing for his newspaper. He breaks off with Edith.

CHAPTER XXII.

THE instant I thought of Douglass my mind clarified to such an extent that I felt intoxicatingly normal—drunk with relief, so to speak.

Douglass, at the behest of Older, had voluntarily submitted to six months' commitment at the Napa State Hospital that he might try the hydro-therapeutic treatment for the cure of chronic alcoholism. After he had been there four months a party of us motored up to see him and his condition was so markedly improved that the superintendent had permitted him to take us along with him to Napa Soda Springs for the night.

After dinner at the soda springs Douglass and I had gone for a moonlight walk, during which he had told me a great deal about his awful experiences as a drinker. Among other things he recounted this fiahie against the "horrors," explaining how that awful state usually results from the sudden denial of alcohol to a saturated system, and though unreasonably frightful while it lasts, the disorder is nearly always transient and seldom fatal.

All this passed through my mind like a flash and I scrambled to my feet immensely relieved.

I was not crazy. I had delirium tremens! At this encouraging thought I shouted aloud for joy and started to sink as I swung off in what I imagined was the direction of the hotel. I had taken only a few strides, however, when voices again assailed me, separate voices in each ear.

'And Then Something Crawled Down Tree

"You fool! Douglass was in the bughouse and crazy as a loon when he handed you that bunk. You can't kid yourself—you're insane—hopelessly insane!" And then, in the other ear, "Just wait until you see what's behind this tree!"

Even as the latter voice ceased an enormous boa-constrictor came winding down the trunk, its body as big as the tree itself, its horrible fangs and forked tongue exposed, its beady eyes glistening in anticipation.

I froze in my tracks. THIS WAS NO DELUSION! It was a snake, and big enough to swallow me whole! I tried to cry out, but my tongue froze to the roof of my mouth. I tried to run and my legs were concrete pillars. My heart pumped heating. My eyes popped out. The snake leisurely came on, its swollen neck arched. It licked its chops.

That one false act—that licking of its chops—saved him. Who ever heard of a boa-constrictor licking its chops!

"You're a fake!" I screamed, my voice coming back with a rush that almost choked me. "You're no more real than I am!"

I sprang forward, right into its fiery jaws and encountered—nothing.

Face Them All and Fight Them, Plan

The reaction was terrific. I stood trembling. My clothes were clammy with perspiration; my eyes smarted with it. I wanted to shout at my deliverance, but knew that I had other ordeals ahead and must not triumph too soon. Nevertheless, I felt victorious. I had jumped right at the monster and conquered it. My mind felt lucid again and I spoke aloud.

"You've got to face them all and fight them," I advised myself. "If you give up, if you run again, you're lost. Keep that in mind."

As if to verify the soundness of this auto-suggestion a beautiful girl woman stood laughing just before me. She was scantily clad. There was a pale blue diaphanous garment loose about her. Her appearance was so unexpected, her beauty so compelling that I did not for an instant doubt her reality. I seemed bursting with sudden, intense joy.

"Come!" she smiled. "You have suffered enough. Pay no attention to the mad things—they are not real."

Her voice was low and pelluci exquisitely more feminine than any woman a voice I had ever heard, and I reached forward for her extended hand.

It was not there!

I was aghast! Surely the delirium tremens didn't torture with unreal beauties. That seemed impossible. The monsters had been too horrible. But where was her hand? Mine was where I could plainly see and clasp hers, yet I held nothing. Terrified, I drew back, the temptation to run strong upon me.

"Come, boy," she said distinctly.

A surge of emotion beyond any living experience, beyond resistance, beyond denial, swept me. I sprang forward and encountered—space. But there she was, a few paces ahead, beckoning me to follow. I did, running faster and faster. Her golden hair was streaming and whipped my face. Her laughter tantalized me to greater and greater efforts. I saw nothing; neither earth

CALL 18-FT. SKY-PIECE A TRICK

Injunction Asked by Committee of Residents to Block Plans of Hotel Kenmore

An injunction against the erection of an 88-foot high building on Commonwealth avenue near the Hotel Kenmore, was sought by Attorney General Jay R. Benton today.

He filed an information in Supreme Court to enjoin John Druker, Joseph Rudnick and Abraham Snyder, trustees of the Beacon-Kenmore Trust, from erecting the proposed building.

The proceeding was brought at the relation of Grenville H. Norcross, Herbert M. Sears, John S. Lawrence, Francis Gray, Walter C. Baylies, Edwin S. Webster and John S. Ames, a committee of residents of Commonwealth avenue.

The purpose of this committee, it is stated, is to watch over the interests of Commonwealth avenue, and preserve it as a public park, for which it was originally laid out.

According to the Attorney-General, the owners of Hotel Kenmore have begun the erection of a building at Nos. 486-496 Commonwealth avenue, to be 18 feet above the 70 foot limit, and to have a so-called roof containing two habitable stories.

The plans were said to have been approved by the Park Commission on April 2 last, by a two to one vote, Chairman James B. Shea dissenting.

The majority ruled that erection above the 70 foot limit was a roof within the meaning of the statute.

The matter will come before Judge Walt of the Supreme Court a week from today.

LOST TEACHER SOUGHT IN HUB HOSPITALS

A search of the private and public hospitals of Boston is being conducted by the police today in an effort to locate Miss Charlotte Madeiros, pretty twenty-three year-old Westport school teacher, who mysteriously disappeared three weeks ago.

It was reported that the girl was in a West Newton hospital, but a check of the institutions in that district failed to reveal her name listed as a patient at any of them.

When Miss Madeiros dismissed her pupils on April 24, apparently she was in the best of health and spirits. The teacher went to her rooming house in New Bedford and packed a few of her belongings, after which she went to the office of Charles H. Gifford town treasurer of Westport, and drew a part of her pay. That was the last seen of her.

On the following Monday morning Superintendent Devlin of the Westport schools received a telegram signed by Miss Madeiros, and sent from New Bedford, stating she was in poor health, regretfully and asking that a substitute teacher be put in her place. This was done and nothing more was thought of the matter.

Several days ago the missing girl's sister, Miss Annie Madeiros, a teacher in the Worcester public schools communicated with Superintendent Baldwin. She inquired about her sister, saying she had just learned her sister had been missing for three weeks.

Killer Faces Firing Squad

Salt Lake City, Utah, May 15—Pedro Cano, convicted of slaying June 81, Clair in 1923, was executed by a firing squad at the State prison here today. The prisoner maintained his innocence to the last.

POISON GIVEN TO THEIR PETS

At left, Robert Turner of No. 44 Harris street, Brookline, whose dog was a victim during the wholesale poisoning of canine pets in Brookline. Posing with Robert is Mike, owned by Mrs. Armstrong. Right, Jess, an English setter, owned by Mrs. W. P. McCracken of No. 15 Auburn place, Brookline. The dog also had been poisoned, but recovered. A little girl friend helps Jess "show off" for the cameraman.

DOG POISONING IN BROOKLINE STIRS POLICE

Stirred to action by the clamor of householders and the wailing of children mourning their pets, the Brookline police are at last making a real effort to run down the man who has been poisoning dogs in the Longwood district.

Already more than a dozen dogs have been poisoned by this unnatural scourge, some of them were blood-stock worth hundreds of dollars. All of them left mourners, little boys or girls who loved them.

Within one quarter mile of Coolidge Corner, the ravages of the poisoner has been particularly virulent.

The poison used is very powerful. The animal to which it is administered usually dies in agony. Apparently it is left about or somewhere concealed in meat or liver.

The poisoner is no respecter of persons. Associate Justice Daniel T. Kiley has lost a dog. So has Postman Del W. Turner. Also Harold S. Tripp, the tenor. Robert Turner, the policeman's son is mourning the murdered pet still.

Some of the dogs recover. But not many. One to be that lucky was Jess, an English setter, owned by Mrs. W. P. McCracken of No. 15 Auburn place, Brookline.

WANTS AIR BUREAU IN COMMERCE DEPARTMENT

Washington, May 15 (A.P.)—Establishment of a bureau of air navigation in the Department of Commerce was recommended to President Coolidge today by Senator Bingham of Connecticut, who has just completed an inspection of American air fields.

Legislation authorizing the bureau will be presented to the next Congress, Bingham said. He praised the advancement made since the war, but said the service lacked personnel and proper equipment. He is opposed to an independent air service.

Felder Disbarred

New York, May 15 (A.P.)—Thomas B. Felder, who with Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent, was convicted last January of conspiracy to bribe high government officials, today was disbarred by the Supreme Court.

SHOT WHILE WALKING IN YARD

No Sound, No One in Sight, as Bullet Plows Into Melrose Meter Reader

Mystery surrounds the shooting today of Stephen Burke, thirty years old, of Beacon place, Melrose, employed as a meter reader for the Melrose Water Department, as he was walking through a yard off of Hesseltine street, Melrose Highlands.

Burke told police he was walking along a short cut, when he felt something strike his ankle. He paid no attention to it at first, but when he walked along a little farther he saw blood on his shoe.

He went into the street in a dazed condition and was taken to the Melrose Hospital by a passing motorist.

It was found he had been shot with a 22-calibre bullet, from who or by whom the police are unable to say.

ONE DRINK AND MAIL DRIVER'S JOB IS GONE

Drivers of mail trucks will be summarily discharged if they are caught drinking while on duty, according to notices issued today by Postmaster Roland M. Baker.

In the past such offences have been punished by demotion, loss of pay, and other ways.

The order was issued in Washington for the entire country by First Assistant Postmaster-General John H. Bartlett.

In promulgating the order in Boston, Postmaster Baker told his drivers that each one should do his utmost to prevent any of his associates from taking one drink.

"My reason for telling you boys this," he said, "is that I am certain that even one drink of such liquor as is obtainable today in Lake is cause illness and immediate intoxication."

BIDDEFORD MAN DIES AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Biddeford, Me., May 15.—William J. Miller, twenty-two, of this city was killed and Joseph Clark of Kennebunk seriously injured when their automobile was hit by a train at Dragdon's Crossing today.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS MAN HEADS WHEATON COLLEGE

Rev. George T. Smart, D. D. of Newton Highlands, vice-president of the board of trustees of Wheaton College, has been elected acting president of the college to fill the place of President Samuel V. Cole, who died recently.

Dr. Smart for many years a Wheaton trustee, was ordained to the Congregational ministry in 1888 after studying at Harvard and Middlebury.

He has been a member of the faculties of Andover Theological Seminary and Middlebury College, and is the author of several books. He was born in Leicester, Eng., September 21, 1863.

Auto Speed Kills 312 in State

A few automobile statistics worth remembering.

In 1924 there were 683,000 cars.

In 1910, 77 were killed and 900 injured.

In 1924, 709 were killed and 19,500 were injured.

Of the 709 killed 201 were children.

Of the 19,500 hurt, 1,500 were children.

Of the 709, 312 were killed because of speeding.

Three fourths of the accidents occurred in cities and towns of 5,000 size.

The other fourth were due to speeding and drunken drivers.

EAST RUM ROW SHRINKS; NEW BLOCKADE ON

New York, May 15.—With the advent of the blockade of the Atlantic Rum Row demonstrated, Federal prohibition officials have been laying plans to guard the gulf of Mexico, the Mississippi River and the Canadian border more carefully.

The one weak spot in the guard now against liquor smuggling is admitted to be the Pacific coast, where California prohibition rumrunners are doing a good business.

Two large steamers dropped anchor about forty miles from San Pedro yesterday, making five vessels in the Rum Row of that vicinity. What key is reported to be an extra-size $45 a case in Los Angeles. Prohibition officials are hopeful of stopping the leak from the Pacific.

New York's Rum Row continues to dwindle. Last week off the report that twelve schooners hauled anchor yesterday leaving only two schooners and two steamers.

At Jackson, Miss., E. C. Yellowley, prohibition field agent, indicted the eighteen men were arrested on warrants. Dickson. There will be a total of 100 dry agents on the Mississippi by the plans go into effect.

In Philadelphia, forty-four policemen are to be suspended from the duties of prohibition enforcement. A spokesman involved, 460 police officers.

The seizure of $10,000 worth of contraband liquor and eight automobiles on the Jersey coast and the arrest of six New York men and the seizure of 600 cases of liquor on the Canadian border bring to nearly $100,000 the value of booze and autos seized.

SUMMER WEIGHT SHOE DAY

FOR MEN—TODAY—MAY 15

HEAVY BROGUE SHOES AND BOOTS TABOO AFTER TODAY

Local shoe merchants declare that if it is logical for a man to change from felts and derbies into straw hats, from heavy suits into lighter suits and from heavy underwear into lighter weight underwear then it is logical that a man should change from heavy types of shoes into lighter in weight shoes.

Fashion authorities have decreed that men to be in style and well dressed this year must change into lighter weight shoes as well as straw hats on May 15. In addition to being "Straw Hat Day" the fifteenth will be observed throughout the country as "Summerweight Shoe Day."

After that day a man wearing heavy tape oxfords and high boots will be as much out of place as a man wearing a straw hat in Winter, according to the leading publications of the shoe industry. To be correctly dressed a man should wear a pair of light shoes that are in keeping with the rest of his attire.

Just because the new type of shoes are lighter in construction than those previously worn it does not mean that they will not wear well. They are specially designed to give long, satisfactory service and much more comfort to the consumer.

The Feather-Weight

This new Light Tan Featherweight model has a little "spring" in the last that adds a little spring to the step and expresses the Spring Style Tendency for 1925.

The close trimmed sole with a beveled edge will give just as much Wear without so much Weight, and stands out in sharp contrast to the clumsy heavy brogue with the wide extension double sole.

It is both Light in Color and Light in Weight, and is our answer to a recognized style demand for a more simplified pattern and slender appearance, concealing comfort in its custom lines.

NURMI OUT TO BREAK HALF-MILE RECORD

MARK OF 1:50 IS HIS AIM

Helffrich, Penn State Star, to Oppose Him in Attempt at New York, May 26

New York, May 15 (A.P.)—A new world's record of 1:50 for the half-mile will be the aim of Paavo Nurmi in his farewell American race at the Yankee Stadium on May 26, according to his friends.

The flying Finn has already begun training for the test in which he will clash strides with the brilliant Penn State athlete. Also Helffrich Nurmi is confident that he can defeat the college middle distance star, and his friends pointed to the fact that he has been running under 1:53 steadily in his workouts. [Re]fusal to play [the] championship [game] tomorrow afternoon at Wonderland Park, Boston, in favor of a game at New Bedford, with the latter city guaranteeing the Soccer team a financial gain of $1000 over the Wonderland receipts, has resulted in the Boston team remaining in this city and playing the game here.

The New Bedford management, which has been trying for weeks to get the Soccer team to play in that city, made the offer of $1000 over the Wonderland receipts in the hope that the game would draw a big crowd. The Soccer team, however, refused to accept the offer, as it would have meant a loss to the players of the gate receipts at Wonderland Park.

The game will be played here tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and the Soccer team is confident that a large crowd will be present to see the game.

BULGER'S GHOST COUNSELS MICKEY WALKER

PRESENT AS 'SECOND' WHEN CHAMPION IS DEFENDING TITLE

By JACK CONWAY.

THE ghost of Jack Bulger will be in Mickey Walker's corner when he battles Lefty Cooper in a ten-round bout in San Francisco Saturday afternoon.

Jack Conway

Jack Kearns, Walker's new pilot, will to all outward signs be chief second of the world's welterweight champion, but those who are acquainted with good-natured Mickey will know that as he sits in his corner between rounds he will be holding spiritual conversation with Bulger.

It was Bulger who started Walker on his career as a boxer. He piloted him from the preliminary ranks to a victory over Jack Britton in a contest for the world's welter weight championship.

With the golden road ahead Bulger was stricken with an attack of appendicitis, pertonitis set in and as likeable a character as the boxing game has ever known passed on.

Walker was in Philadelphia prepared to box Johnny Gill when informed of Bulger's condition. He postponed the match, returned to Newark and offered to give his own blood if it would help save his manager's life.

"EVERY boxing manager in the country seemed to want me to go under their direction after Jack was counted out," Mickey told this writer during a chat in New York. "All of them might I didn't need a manager as Jack Bulger seem to be now all the time. * * * I decided I have to get the Lefty to and planned for me. I figured on fighting Lefty Tendler. I was also eager to take Benny Leonard as Bulger felt I could defeat him. But Benny developed a fake injury a few weeks before our match and the contest was called off.

"I shall tackle Harry Greb in New York in June. You know how Jack wanted to get this bout for me.

"Before I make a single move in regard to my boxing affairs, I always seek Jack's advice. What would Jack Bulger have advised under these conditions?

"And so it has been when I have been fighting. I always feel that Jack is in my corner, that he is urging me on to greater efforts, that he is offering me words of advice.

"Bulger and myself were more than boxer and manager. We were pals. That's probably why I always feel as though he is in my presence when I am boxing.

"JACK KEARNS is my selection as a manager. He will take charge of my affairs after the Greb bout in New York. Meanwhile he will be my adviser.

"Bulger named Kearns as his successor. Remember the day Dempsey, Kearns, Bulger, you and I made the trip from Saratoga Springs to New York together?

"We had just had dinner and Dempsey and Kearns had left the table.

"'There's my ideal as a fighter,' I said as I watched Dempsey leaving the room.

"'And there's my ideal as a manager,' replied Bulger as he looked in the direction of Kearns. 'He's the smartest man managing boxers today and is responsible for a great deal of Dempsey's success.'

"The task of arranging my own bouts was quite a burden as I had to do the fighting as well. I decided to secure a manager. Jack Bulger's spirit then counseled me. I remembered the words Jack uttered as we rode down from Saratoga and decided upon Kearns.

"AT first Kearns hesitated about managing me while also directing the affairs of Dempsey. Then the ink of Hearts was nipped by one of Cupid's darts and started on his honeymoon trip. This enabled Kearns to find time in which to take over my ring affairs.

"Of course I'll always listen to Kearns and take his advice. But I'll also heed the counsel of Jack Bulger for I am sure he will always be near me, especially when I am out there under the flickering calcium defending my title."

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Master of 31 Golf Champions: "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

What the ordinary golfer most needs for 25 to 60 yards more from the tee is the golf-old knack of wrist action in the forward swing. This is easy to acquire and the best way I know of to get it is to visit the professional. There isn't a professional anywhere who doesn't know how to sling his wrists into the hitting blow and to impart the knack to the player is one of the easiest tasks he has. There are a number of things that prevent correct wrist, or hand, action in the forward swing, and while I can tell you how to get this action, the professional can see at a glance what may be preventing you from getting it. Wrist and forearm rigidity in the back swing, taking the club back too far, loosening the grip at the top, trying to hit too soon and trying to hit with the body instead of with the clubhead are a few of the things that interfere with correct wrist action.

Pennypacker Reviews Harvard Athletics

Writing in the Harvard Alumni [illegible] Pennypacker declares that [illegible] should occupy their full share [illegible] graduates' time and [illegible] He advises that no new [illegible] sport should be [illegible] that the number of inter [illegible] contests should not be increased that informal athletics should be encouraged in every way provided such encouragement does not lead to or suggest the recognition of a new intercollegiate sport that vacations should not be used for [illegible] intercollegiate contests [illegible] except university [illegible] is a matter of appointment [illegible] that interest in [illegible] and post season [illegible] be abolished, and that no [illegible] should represent [illegible] in more than two [illegible] in one academic year [illegible] special permission of [illegible] committee."

SELECTION OF COACHES.

Mr. Pennypacker describes the method by which coaches are selected by the athletic committee under the guidance of the various graduate advisory committees.

"The committee," he says, "knows of no better way in which these selections can be made. Human service is not to be bought like pounds of sugar. In coaching, it is not true either that you are sure to get what you pay for or that you pay for all that you get. Competition among colleges has reached the point where bidding for coaching service amounts to a grave evil. This feverish scramble commercializes amateur sport and threatens to degrade its standards."

This, he explains, led Yale Princeton and Harvard to limit expenses of football coaching. He calls the tradition of having a graduate as head coach in football a healthy and sound one and hopes to see it extend to other sports.

In closing Mr. Pennypacker ex

SANDE DECIDES TO RIDE ON FLYING EBONY

OFFER OF $2,000 IS SPURNED

Bruening Insists on Keeping Quatrain as Mount in the Derby

Louisville, Ky., May 15 (A.P.)—Louisville sporting writers, who have seen most of the candidates work out for a month, are of the general opinion that the first five colts to come home will include Quatrain, Captain Hal, Kentucky Cardinal, Chantey and Almadel. Quatrain is chosen to lead the field.

Louisville, May 15 (A.P.)—Earle Sande will ride Flying Ebony, Gifford A. Cochran's Kentucky Derby entrant, in the $50,000 classic to be run at Churchill Downs tomorrow, he told friends here today.

Yesterday Sande made Jockey Bruening a $2,000 offer if he would let him ride Quatrain, Frederick Johnson's great colt, and said he would give Bruening an additional $5,000 if Quatrain won. Bruening declined to give up his mount.

Sande originally was scheduled to ride for the Will iam Zeigler, Jr., stable, but Borderland and Nellie Morse beat Quatrain in recent trials, the only other Zeigler entry was not trained for the Classic. This left Sande free to get another mount.

If any of the colts fail to meet the exacting demands involved in a contest like the Derby it will not be the fault of their trainers.

TALK CORNELL-OHIO STATE GRID GAME

Copyright, 1925, by Universal Service

New York, May 15.—Cornell's visit to Columbus recently to play baseball with Ohio State is considered in some quarters as portentous. There seems to be a possibility that Cornell and the Buckeyes will hook up in football in the near future thus providing another interesting intersectional game.

It is no reflection on Ohio State to say that Cornell's first love in the Middle West has always been Michigan nor to add that the attraction is mutual.

Graduates of the two institutions have done their utmost to get the two together again.

Walk Miller wires to the Boston Evening American as follows:

"Tiger Flowers and myself will arrive in Boston late Saturday night for the bout with Pal Reed Monday night. The Tiger is in the best of condition. He knows he must be fit as Reed can punch.

"While in Boston will try to close for bouts with Wilson and Hamilton Kelley. The Tiger is to come up for a Masons at East Chicago on June 5.

"The Tiger says he will stand up and fight with Reed. He won't try and box his way to the decision.

"This means the tussle should develop into an old fashioned fight. Reed's a free hitting youth and likes to bowl over the opposition."

REAL SPARKLER 12 HOURS AHEAD

The advantage to sport fans in reading the Box Score Red Diamond Edition of the Boston Evening American was forcibly illustrated last night.

The instant that the trouble between Earl Smith, the peppery catcher of the Pirates, and one of the fans at Braves Field broke out the story was being ticked out on the telegraph wire running between the press coop at the field and the office.

It was toward the end of the game that the lively stuff occurred. So in the Box Score Edition, on the street in a few minutes, the whole story was laid before the public.

Fast work in all departments, from Nick Flatley, covering the game, to the newsboys dealing out Red Diamonds to the eager customers, tells the story.

TWELVE HOURS AHEAD ONE MORE. And not the first time this week, by any means.

You may depend upon the Red Diamond sport pages to be first with the facts. The story was a REAL SPARKLER.

WORCESTER COURSE MORE DIFFICULT

Worcester, May 15—Harold B. Chase, chairman of the Worcester County Club tournament committee, announced today that the course, measuring 6,200 yards, for the open event, the [illegible] Open [illegible]

The Worcester course is in splendid condition and will give the men who go out at 1:05 o'clock on Saturday afternoon one of the hardest tests of golf they have ever had in the open championship. New tees and many trees have been added since the eastern qualifying round for the open was played here last year.

The rough which was light last year, is now heavy and will exact a real penalty from those who stray off the line of play. Practically all ready started by a number of players, who hope to qualify at Lida Club members and visitors think that a score of 295 will be good enough to win at Worcester.

AMATEUR BOXERS IN LYNN SHOW TONIGHT

As tonight is an open date in Boston the only place for the fighting fans to amuse themselves will be at a tourney to Lynn and witness one of the many amateur boxing tournaments that the Pioneer A. A. is staging in Casino Hall, Summer street. The feature will be a contest to decide who is the best 126 pounder in Lynn. This class already has four entries in [illegible] Jimmy Liberi, Harold Gallin, Larry Rel Cobbett and Tommy [illegible]

Other stars that will appear in the different classes are Jim O'Donnell, a former captain of the football baseball and track teams of Everett High School; Peter Thynne of Beverly and Johnny Walker, a former football star from East Boston. Four classes will be contested, the 112-pound, 147-pound and 160-pound open and 126-pound Lynn class.

Malden Wins on Cinders

Malden High defeated Somerville High, 41 to 36, in a dual track meet on the new track at the Malden High School field. Pitock of Malden won both sprints. Colclough, another Malden boy, was caught in 16 flat seconds over 120-yard high hurdles.

'WISE' BOYS GOT CROSSED UP BY REFEREE

By TAD

The Sydney Referee is now running a series of stories regarding the great fighters of other days who made Australia famous in boxing circles. One of them relates the early experiences of Bill Murphy, one time featherweight champ, then a [illegible]

While [illegible] ring [illegible] constructed of [illegible] material, which could not prevent sound from getting through, [illegible] who might be on the [illegible] a conversation was overheard by the promoter, the late Larry Foley, by which he learned that it was arranged by the men to go light.

Instead of bursting into the small enclosure as most men might have done, the promoter, since, the great Larry went quietly away without the boxers dreaming that he had heard their plan.

Foley waited until each man was in the ring waiting for the signal to commence. Then, going quietly to Deerfoot's angle, he said:

"Now listen to me. This bloke Murphy has whispered to me that he promised to go light, but in reality he will be out to stop you. But don't ever tell him that I told you, don't you see; don't you understand?"

Deerfoot was enraged. He strained at the leash and, glaring at Murphy, swore vengeance.

Going to Murphy's corner, Foley gave him a similar message, and the inevitable resulted. A fight that was to have been on ice was converted into a very willing affair until the power of Murphy's punch had his opponent emulating a cat on hot bricks until nailed on the chin and ruled.

Thrilling Story of Dying Prisoner Written by Himself

nor sky, only that beautiful flying figure just ahead—always just ahead. I was not breathing, but panting and sobbing for breath, yet kept on, ever certain that the next instant she would be mine.

Then my foot caught in a root and I crashed heavily to the ground. Even as I sprawled I heard her ringing laugh and it spurred me to arise. On my hands and knees in the act of getting up I looked to see how far ahead she had progressed in my unutterable joy she [illegible] with me, reaching forward to help me rise, her shining eyes all upon mine.

Beauty Turns Into Horrid Beast

I reached forward to take her hands, when like a flash she metamorphosed into the most monstrous thing conceivable. She turned into a slimy green and red gorilla lizard, with horns and great yellow fangs, too hideous to look upon, striking terror and unutterable loathing to the very roots of my being. I fell forward on my face and squirmed away sidewise, moaning and frothing at the mouth.

After that—but what happened is utterly indescribable and words are meaningless, futile. The night passed in a long, continuous fight against monstrous things, with mangy beasts nipping my calves, with scorpions crawling into my throat whenever I tried to call for help.

And elephants—there were millions of them. I was raised up and dashed to the ground by their [illegible] and never could I get free from [illegible] No person can possibly describe what takes place with that demoniac reality, during delirium tremens.

When dawn broke the apparitions reluctantly departed. I gradually became normal, or thought I did. My clothes were torn and face and hands were scratched and covered with dried blood. I wanted a cigarette as a man dying of thirst wants water.

Yet I felt strong and capable physically. I looked about and decided that the hills about me were those about three miles northeast of Agua Caliente. I know that Valley of the Moon country well. I had been up there many times.

I looked at my watch and found it. Water there was none, so I could not wash. My only plan was to get back to the hotel as fast as I could. I might be able to get there before many of the guests were up and slip into my bungalow unnoticed.

I started and had gone perhaps half a mile toward the county road and the lowlands, when it suddenly occurred to me it was Sunday.

Sunday? Sunday!" I kept repeating to myself.

There was something I had agreed to do that morning—something very important—but was it? I wasted on, tortured by my inability to recall what it was I had planned for Sunday. My subconscious mind kept telling me I simply must remember.

Plans for a Picnic at Last Recalled

And then like a flash it came to me. Before I had even promised Older to come to Agua Caliente I had already arranged to meet a girl that Sunday—this very day—at the junction of the country road and the Hooker's Falls trail. The meeting was to be at 8:30 that morning and we were to tramp up the gorge to the falls and picnic there for the day, as we had often done before.

I recalled her punctuality at previous meetings. She would arrive at the meeting place on time. If I were not there she would be mystified. I had never failed.

And yet, how could I? I was not in tramping clothes, but in the torn remnants of a business suit, with wilted collar and hatless. My face and hands were severely scratched. How could I explain my condition? [illegible] her I had been fighting delirium tremens all night. I might tell her of her own home or of some one of her friends that I did not have time to get to the hotel and back again. The trail was only a half mile from the spot where I was then and I had an hour in which to get there.

All I could do was to concoct some plausible fabrication explanatory of my wild appearance. I would never do to let her wait uselessly for me, perhaps for two or three hours. Besides I wanted to see her—I craved sympathetic companionship, even though I would be obliged to conceal what I had been through.

I decided to go.

Three Minute Journeys

By Temple Manning

WE have heard of birds used as carriers and as messengers and as guardians of the fleets to keep them free of certain pests. But in Japan, in the fisheries of cormorants, birds are used for the purpose of catching fish.

There they have a group of cormorants that are trained to catch fish, and they are most successful at it, too. The fisherman will stand in the prow of his boat, holding in his hands the thin strings that are attached at the other end to the birds. These thin strings he uses as reins by which to manage and recall his feathered assistants.

The birds are all fastened in a sort of harness like arrangement. A loop of fibre is fastened about the throat of each of the birds and is secured to one end of a strip of whalebone which is stiff enough to prevent the leash at its other end from becoming entangled about the body of the bird. The leash is made of twisted spruce fibre and is about twelve feet long.

The fisherman stands in his boat with the loose ends of the reins attached to his birds. The chief task of this fisherman is to tie the fish properly about the birds' throats. This must be done with the greatest skill and precision, for the entire success of the work depends on this operation.

If the fibre is tied too loosely, all of the fish that the birds catch will pass directly into the stomachs, and becoming satisfied, they will refuse to go on with the chase. If, on the other hand, the noose is too tight, the bird will become weak and tired, he will get no food at all and finally become ill. The object is to tie the fish just tight enough to allow the smaller fish and retain the larger ones in the pouch of its throat.

As the bird dives about in the water in search of his prey, the busy fisherman must watch him and keep his leash clear and unentangled. The dozen or so lines in his hands must all remain sorted and clear, no matter how quickly the birds move about in their work.

Every once in a while the fisherman will jerk gently at one of his reins, and very shortly a bird will alight on the gunwhale, in prompt obedience to the summons. Quickly the master will seize him by the throat, and passing his hand up along the gullet will force open the bird's beak. To the surprise of the onlooker, a shining trout will drop from the bird's beak into the boat, still alive and active.

These birds are of great value and are guarded and cared for as tenderly as we might care for a successful race horse or a prize pointer. They are an important item in the lives of the fishermen of Oifu, and without the birds they might find it indeed difficult to earn their livings.

DAILY SHORT STORY

HEART OF GOLD

By Lilliace Montgomery Mitchell

"If you marry Loya, you certainly are going to be sorry, Jim," went on his mother.

Jim stirred restlessly. "Who said I intended to marry her even if she'd have me?" he said. For an instant he almost wished that Saturday were not a half holiday.

"Emma, now, there's a girl for you—always mending and sewing and saving. Marry a girl like Emma and she will help you save and get ahead. It's not that I don't want you to marry, son, you know that! But a man who saddles himself with an extravagant wife just because she has style and flair and is jolly, that man is going to regret it ever after. Loya is gay but who wouldn't be gay when singing about the house and gay when she has new clothes the way she does every month or so."

Goes for Walk.

Jim rose. "Guess I'll go for a walk, Mother. Want anything at the grocery store when I'm coming back?"

"Yes, you might bring a peck of potatoes from the Cash and Carry," she said reflectively. "Or, if they're having that sale today you might even get a bushel. We always need them and they're heavy for me to carry."

Jim strolled down the street, a scowl on his face. He did love Loya. And why should he not love her? She was, as his mother had said, always laughing and gay and merry. A person felt as if he sat in a sunny room with Loya about.

Perhaps it was her sunny, golden hair or perhaps the grey green eyes that sometimes held a glint of bronze in them, like the bronze of an old bell hanging long in the sun. Perhaps it was her clothes which were, too, as his mother had pointed out, so frequently new.

Emma was the girl of his mother's choice. Not very different in looks, perhaps, for she, too, was blonde. Her eyes were blue, the blue of a northern lake where the chill of spring does not leave even in mid summer. Her hair was the ash blonde with no warm tints.

Little Frown.

It was not this lack of warmth in coloring or disposition that troubled Jim; it was the little frown that lay forever between her eyebrows, a frown drawn there, perhaps, by constant sewing and mending, for Emma was a good housekeeper and very economical.

"It's a crazy thing for a fellow to marry a girl because his mother likes her," he said, kicking aside a fallen twig that lay in his path. "And yet Loya would be miserable if mother got at her with her constant nagging about darning stockings and mending holes!"

There was no doubt in Jim's mind about his mother's reception of Loya. Had his brother Howard not brought home a pretty little red-cheek girl who had been turned into a scold by his mother? Howard and his wife had now gone to Seattle and Howard wrote back letters to Jim about his great joy with the coming of little Mary who was like her mother, happy and merry all of the day.

Almost without knowing it Jim turned towards the lake and saw the building where Loya had a little studio apartment.

"Miss Loya's out," said the little scrubbing girl who opened the door for him. "She'll be back in a few minutes if you want to wait."

And so it was that Jim found himself sitting in the wide living room waiting for Loya while the little scrubbing girl wiped up the polished floor with an oil-dipped cloth on her hands and knees.

Mop Girl Talks

"Most places I just use a wooly mop," the girl said as she worked, "but Miss Loya does like things done thorough. She always wants the floor rubbed and rubbed until it's real shiny and nice. I like to do it that way, too, only most of my ladies hurry me when I'm working. Miss Loya's real nice, ain't she?"

Jim stared down at the loquacious little worker who was sitting back on her heels now staring up at him. "Why—why yes, she is," he answered awkwardly.

"I think she's gone up to the dry-goods store to get a new tie for that tan overblouse of hers? You know the one I mean?" she asked.

Jim nodded. He recalled distinctly the overblouse of golden tan woven silk that blended so perfectly with Loya's hair.

"I'm pretty sure she's going to give it to me this afternoon when I get finished with my work," the girl went on as she rubbed vigorously under the davenport.

"She's real good about giving me her clothes when I take a fancy to them. I'm going in a party tonight and I'd just love that overblouse to wear! I was looking at it this morning and she saw me. Of course I didn't ask her for it but I did tell her I was going to a party. Last week she gave me her blue dress and I made that over for my sister Sallie. Sallie is smaller than I am and so I can make Miss Loya's things over real nice for her. Sallie loves pretty clothes. If I earned enough scrubbing I'd get her some nice things, but—" here the little scrubbing girl sighed.

Oldest In Family

"How old are you?" asked Jim, curiously.

"I'm seventeen, the oldest one in the family except Ma. Pa left us, you know. Ma sews, piece work at home, so's she can take care of the littlest ones and Ma and I earn the living now that Pa's gone. Wasn't it lucky I was strong enough to scrub and clean?"

Jim was alone in the room now for the little scrub girl had vanished with her rags and bottle of polish into another room.

When Loya came in her cheeks were flushed from running upstairs. "Hi'lo, Jim," she greeted him gaily, "push that window up, will you, and I'll be with you in a second." She came back with a tiny workbox and the golden overblouse.

"Like to sew?" asked Jim lazily as he watched her.

"Hate it," she said promptly. "Despise it, but the youngster is going to a party tonight and I thought I'd put a little lace in the sleeves of this and with a new tie it will look all right."

"Going to give that pretty blouse away?" he asked, sitting up.

"Didn't know you liked it so well," she said, her cheeks flushing.

"And that's where all your clothes go?" he said accusingly.

"Well, what of it?" she countered "It's little enough chance we get to, make people happy, and this little girl who cleans is the oldest of eight children. It takes a lot of clothes to fit out eight children and a mother."

Heart of Gold

Jim was looking out of the window. A girl with a heart of gold as well as a golden head of hair! A fellow hates to take on a big family like that," he said with a queer little laugh, "but, Loya, how do you think you and I would make a go of marriage? I—say, Loya, you are going to marry me, aren't you, dear?"

Loya looked at him seriously a moment and before she could put into a word the look in her eyes, the little scrubbing girl was at the door.

"Oh," said the little scrubbing girl with clasped hands, "ain't it romantic—just likes the movies!"

MEDBURY SAYS

By John P. Medbury

HENRY FORD announces that as soon as he gets a million he is going to hang on to it.

NO matter whether it is the lines taxes on the ground or in the air, you've got to get out of them sometime.

WHEN you're sailing ten thousand feet above the earth you can't just step out and leave the machine where it is.

PASSENGERS will have to wear shock absorbers on their feet and bumpers on the soles.

BY equipping the planes with rubber heels you can fall out of Mr. Ford's C. on First and bound right back again.

YOU might even be able to bounce back into a more expensive one.

HE'S got to invent some kind of a device that will enable us to get out of the airplane early in the crash.

THE only thing a man can hold on to is a lie.

AND it's hard to find somebody who'll take us up and leave us there.

AIR is a mighty fine thing to have to hang on to.

THERE'S nothing to grab hold of.

ATMOSPHERE doesn't come equipped with handles.

EDSEL FORD should take lessons from the aircraft car companies and fasten straps to the cabin.

IF we get out of the machine we up in the sky we've got to have some place to walk.

AS it is now we'd have to get out in front of the airplane and hang on to the crank.

BUT, this is very dangerous, as nine out of ten Fords slip off the hands.

THE girl won't have any trouble at all they can revive the pain chute skirts. And unless somebody develops for us men some way we'll have to hang on to the women.

PARKER HOUSE CLINGING TO CORNER

No Thought of Giving Way to Office Building, Says Trustee Williams

The Parker House is not to be sold. Trustees of the property this morning vigorously denied the report that the famous hostelry was to give way to office buildings.

Moses Williams, a trustee of the property, said at his office at No. 18 Tremont street today that the report in the morning papers of the intended sale of the hotel was unfounded.

"The Parker House," he said, "is no more for sale than any other property in Boston. Of course, if we should receive an offer at a large price the trustees would consider it. The present lease has nearly two years to run and is far more apt to be renewed than the property to be sold.

"The story was a surprise to me, and if, as a result, we should be offered, say $5,000,000, the prospective buyer would have a hard time getting out of our office before we got his money.

"From all indications, the Parker House will remain a hotel for many years to come."

ROYAL MOUNTED HEAD SCOFFS AT MOVIES

"Shorty" Says His Men Are Not the Slick-Haired Giant "Dolls" the Films Depict

New York, May 15.—Picturesque characters from all over the world—from yellow China and perfumed Samarkand, from Australia and the dusty deserts of Araby, from Scotland Yard and from gay Paree—are talking things over here now at the international police conference.

Five feet 5 inches tall, but broad and iron muscled, is Commissioner Cortlandt Starnes of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. He has no respect for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police as depicted by movie stars.

"A slick-haired chocolate soldier pipe dream," he calls them.

Furthermore, the "mounties" are not all more than six feet tall, nor does any of them use grease on his hair or manicure his fingernails.

Quite a different sort of person is Abdullah Bahramy, police chief of Teheran, the capital of Persia. He reports that the harem has almost disappeared from the land of Omar Khayyam. The horse and the camel also are disappearing, he says, their places being taken by the ubiquitous flivver.

E. D. Wolf, commandant of police in Hongkong, has 2,000 men to deal with a population of more than 700,000. Yet there were but six or eight murders in Hongkong last year.

"How many did you convict?" he was asked.

"Why, I think we strung 'em all up," Wolf replied, surprised at the question.

WEEKLY MEAT CHAT:
THE MEAL PROBLEM

My talk today is about serving one of our most important foods, meat and meat products.

It is best to plan meals at least two days in advance. This makes for a saving in buying foods, especially with meats, because often times a large piece of meat can be cooked and served in two or more ways. A clever cook will purposely have left-over meat, for she thinks of the hundred and one attractive ways she can serve it and surprise her family.

After the meals are planned, make your market list. For hamburger and cuts which contain little waste allow one-fourth pound for each person. Men doing heavy work will demand more. Of other cuts allow one-third to one-half pound per person. If you wish an attractive roast or pot roast to carve allow even more.

Almost all meats are in season at all times, but lamb is more of a Summer meat and we should use more of it at that time. Fresh pork is more in demand during the Winter months, while smoked and cured pork products are popular in the Summer months.

SUGGESTS CHARTS.

You could easily select a different cut or meat dish for dinner each day of the next six months and not repeat a single time. I suggest that you get charts, bulletins or recipe booklets which give the names of meat cuts and ways of cooking them. As you use the different cuts check them off and continue until you have tried the many different ones which are profitable to use. Here is a list of some dishes a friend of mine tried in her home for three different weeks:

New England boiled dinner (using corned beef), boiled but of ham with vegetables, stuffed breast of veal, chuck steak of beef smothered in onions, braised neck steaks of lamb, stuffed veal hearts baked, Irish stew (using mutton), Boston butt of pork baked, braised short ribs of beef, fried salt pork with apples, roast pot roast of lamb, braised oxtails, Swiss steak (round), fresh pork (from butt), stewed with parsnips, carrots and cabbage, beef kidney, creole style, baked spareribs and sauerkraut, meat loaf (using beef, veal and a little pork), fried pigs feet, baked stuffed flank steak, boiled brisket of beef with vegetables, and baked ham.

Maybe you would like to know, too, some of the very attractive ways in which she served the left-over meat.

Corned beef hash, escalloped ham, creamed veal with rice border and browned in the oven, meat loaf fleffy over heart chopped and combined with a little cooked bacon and boiled rice), mock chicken salad (left-over pork roast), lamb casserole (left-over pot roast of lamb), meat croquettes, meat pie, sliced cold baked ham.

In this way you can make each day's marketing and cooking different and more interesting. Your family, too, will enjoy the new dishes. If occasionally one person does not like a certain dish, try serving it in a different way the next time.

Now, I want to tell you just how to broil a steak to perfection. Do you know that one reason steak is so often tough is because it has not been kept long enough to become tender? Try this recipe:

RECIPE NO. 1199
PORTERHOUSE OR DELMONICO STEAK.
2 inches thick.
2 heaping tablespoons butter.
1 teaspoon salt (level).
2 tablespoons finely minced parsley.
Pepper to taste.

Sear the steak very quickly on both sides, wrap it in waxed paper and place on the ice for three days. Take it from the ice, heat it well. Butter it on both sides and place it on a steak broiler. Be sure the fire is clean and clear. Turn the broiler very often, let it cook evenly on both sides, watch it and on no account let it scorch. Do not put salt on the steak while cooking; it draws the juices. After 12 minutes press a knife against the steak. If it is elastic it is done. It should not be overcooked, but rich and red and juicy. Take it from the broiler, place it on a platter in the oven. Put pats of butter over the steak, into which parsley has been rubbed. Salt it. Scatter parsley over it, leave it 3 minutes in the oven, doors ajar slightly. Serve very hot and have the dinner plates very hot.

Next I want to give you a recipe for—

RECIPE NO. 1200
BAKED HAM WITH CREAM GRAVY.
1½ pounds sliced ham.
Dry mustard to cover both sides.
½ cup brown sugar.
1 cup milk.
½ cup water.
Strips of fat.

Wash the ham with boiling water after having cut off the fat. Lay the fat strips in the bottom of a casserole dish and over them place the slice of ham, which has been dusted over with dry mustard. Cover it with the brown sugar and pour over it the milk and water. Cover the dish and bake in a moderate oven for 1 hour. During the baking baste it occasionally with the liquid, and during the last 15 minutes uncover the dish to allow the ham to brown. It should serve 4 persons.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Buy New England goods—support New England industries—best in the world.

A Public Demand for Liberty Under the Law, and for Justice, the Breath of Liberty's Being

IN the name of thousands upon thousands of American citizens throughout the six New England States, and on behalf more especially of thousands upon thousands of the citizens of Massachusetts, the Boston Evening American expresses the hope that His Excellency, the Governor of Massachusetts, will make short shrift of the petition of Mr. Homer Loring et al. that Governor Fuller put into immediate operation the law recently enacted regarding motor bus lines in the Commonwealth.

Because the main purpose and the inevitable effect of this law would be to eliminate every motor bus line in Massachusetts from further operation, whenever and wherever such transportation competes with the railroad and street railway and subsidiary companies which Mr. Homer Loring and his fellow petitioners represent, they seem to be unwilling to await the verdict of the people on the question—a verdict which the operation of the referendum law would make possible.

If Mr. Homer Loring and his fellow petitioners were willing to submit the merits of their case to a direct vote of the people they would not be appealing to Governor Fuller to head off a hostile popular verdict.

They would not ask the Governor to declare the existence of a "public emergency" in the face of the plain fact that no such public emergency exists.

The only emergency that exists is that in which the transportation companies represented by Mr. Homer Loring et al. find themselves—the emergency involved in the probability that the law which they persuaded the Legislature to pass will be repealed by direct vote of the people.

If Governor Fuller is opposed to the Initiative and Referendum amendment to the Massachusetts constitution let him recommend its repeal. Pending its repeal, however, the Massachusetts constitution and the laws passed in accordance therewith should be his guide, regardless of the petition of Mr. Homer Loring et al. to the contrary notwithstanding.

There is at stake a far greater issue than the ways and means of regulating the motor bus lines of Massachusetts. The real issue at stake is whether the people of Massachusetts shall remain under the governance of their own constitution or pass under the yoke of an invisible government.

It is an insult to the intelligence of the citizens of Massachusetts to pretend that "public convenience, health or safety" will be put in jeopardy by permitting a referendum upon a new law whose real purpose is to deprive Massachusetts of a means of transportation which the people of many other States of the Union are enjoying today.

For Governor Fuller this newspaper holds no partisan brief.

Against Mr. Homer Loring et al. this newspaper nurses no personal grievance.

This is not a partisan or personal question.

A great principle is here presented. It is a principle that involves the right of the citizens of Massachusetts to the protection of a government of their own choice against the tyranny of an invisible government pressed upon them without their consent.

This is no personal appeal for special FAVOR.

This is a public demand for LIBERTY under the LAW, and for JUSTICE, the breath of LIBERTY'S being.

JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.

"Keep Out, Says Japan"

We Reply, "All Right, Perfectly Agreeable to Us"

The people of California and some other States decided that they did not want their lands owned by Asiatics. Their theory was "a white man's LAND for white PEOPLE."

Laws were passed accordingly and subsequently United States immigration laws excluded all Asiatics from immigrating and colonizing in this country. Students, travelers and others, of course, were to be welcome, as before.

You would have thought Japan would not object to this simple, quite natural law, especially as they had already passed laws forbidding Chinese to settle in Japan, and had even expelled from Japanese territory, many Chinese already settled there.

The Japanese, for whom Americans have great respect, felt that when we decided against Asiatic immigration an exception should be made in their favor.

Now Japan has passed a law under which no foreigner can own land in Japan, if that foreigner's nation forbids Japanese to own its lands.

That is Japan's complete, appropriate and satisfactory "comeback." It suits us.

She says to the United States, "Since Japanese may not own United States land, citizens of the United States shall not own Japanese land."

To this we reply, "Perfectly agreeable, honorable government. Yours is Asiatic land, we respect and approve your decision to keep it for Asiatics. This American land is a white man's land, for white men."

We admire the civilization, intelligence and high accomplishments of the Japanese. We recognize many Japanese qualities to be envied, and imitated.

But we feel and KNOW that the Asiatic races cannot be assimilated here, the Asiatic standards of living are not suited to this country.

We admit quite cheerfully that in many ways we cannot compete with Asiatics. They can work longer hours for less money, and live here at less cost than our own people.

Therefore we say, "Your country FOR YOU, and our country FOR US. And the law against our owning your land is NOT resented. You should accept our law. In any case, you must."

ONCE-OVERS

ARE YOU A JOY KILLER OR DO YOU ENTER WHOLE-HEARTEDLY INTO PLEASURE WITH YOUR FRIENDS?

Are you one of those indifferent, "Oh, I just as soon," sort of joy killers?

If you have no more interest in matters than is indicated by your half reluctant, "I just as soon," you might at least pretend interest.

Your aid is asked to put some undertaking over, and you reply, "I just as soon."

What does that mean?

It means that if everything looks favorable at the time that your services are required and you cannot find anything better to do, you might condescend to help.

Of course, you do not like to have your thoughts read so accurately.

Neither do your friends admire your tame acquiescence when you say, "Oh, I just as soon."

Well, then, if you have anything more than an indifferent attitude toward your popularity, do try to put a little pep into your reply. Your hearty acceptance will warm the hearts of those friends who are trying to please you.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

Helen Rowland

VERILY, my Daughter, fearful and wonderful is the way of a man with a maid! Oh, very FEARFUL!

Lo, all his steps are cautious, and all his words are silkily, and a boarding-school chaperon were not more DISCREET.

All the days of his life he trembleth with fear at a woman's smile of encouragement—and weepeth with delight at her frown of indifference.

ONCE a man may have lied boldly to win a woman's heart and delight her vanity. But NOW they are frankier than a corset advertisement and less subtle than a burglar alarm.

Behold, once a man may have sworn falsely to love a damsel, before seeking to kiss her. But now he saith, "KISS me—but do not take me seriously."

Once he may have offered a woman they key to his heart; but now he pointeth to the padlock thereon, and deflieth her to break it!

Yea, once he may have promised her eternal devotion—but now he promiseth her NOTHING more than the next dance.

Lo, he streweth the Primrose Path with the sawdust of caution and carpet-tacks of self-defense, that he may not skid thereon.

He is SO honest!

He buildeth no beautiful air castles to glorify a damsel's dreams; but handeth her a diagram of his emotions, that she may not deceive herself with illusions concerning him.

He caresseth her with his hat on his head, his eye on the clock, his hand on his pulse and his mind on his freedom.

He is SO circumspect!

For, verily, verily, a man no longer treateth a woman as a moron and a dimwit; but regardeth her as a mortal enemy and a highway robber, who would snatch away his liberty.

What though his years be many, and his face a cartoon, and his girth as a feather-bed?

What though his hair be red, and his name be Smith, and his income twenty dollars a week?

Still, doth he never doubt, in the sweetness of his innocence, that ANY woman would joyfully grapple him to her heart, if he but gave her the CHANCE!

For, is he not a MAN—and everybody's darling?

SELAH.

No Money to Buy Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a mother of six children, girls 9 and 12 and boys 4, 6, 13 and 14. Girls need coats and dresses and boys shoes, blouses, caps, etc. I would appreciate anything as I have no money to buy these things for them and work is very scarce.

A DISCOURAGED FRIEND.

Others in Need

Mrs. A. D. would be interested in adopting a healthy little girl between the ages of three and five.

Mrs. Jennie S., a sick old lady, depending upon others, would appreciate some outsize nightgowns.

Mrs. D. B. asks for a suit, size 44 or 45, and shoes, size 7½, for a disabled man who has not worked for two years. Also ladies' clothing, size 38 or 40, shoes 8½.

A kind reader writes of a poor woman who makes beautiful braided rugs very reasonably and who needs the work badly.

Mrs. C. M. C., whose husband is sickly, and when he is able to work earns very little, is much in need of clothing for girls, 16 and 3, and boys, 14, 10 and 5. She would like a black coat and dress, size 40. Can make over anything.

Mrs. C. J., who has a large family, informs us that some of her children sleep on the floor and she would be glad to get a couch for them.

Mrs. Chas. F. would appreciate clothing for girls, 5 and 3, and boy 2. Expects the stork soon and can make over anything. She needs a long coat, size 40. Husband makes very small wages and they are in debt and trying to pay back bills.

Mrs. E. G. C., who has had lots of sickness in her family, would appreciate dresses for girl 3 and some clothes for boys 6, 5 and 1 year of age. Husband working part time.

Mrs. Elsie C. would be very grateful for a stroller. Husband's earnings just keep them out of debt.

Mrs. G. J. has six children, boys 14, 13, 8 and 2 and girls 8 and 4, in need of clothing of all kinds.

Mrs. J., mother of six, also mothers two orphan children of her sister, girl 5, who needs dresses, shoes and stockings and boy 5, who needs suit and shoes, size 11½. Will be so glad to get anything for them.

Mrs. R. J., whose husband is a hard working man, but wages small, expects her ninth child in June and would appreciate some infant's clothing.

INCREASE OF DUTIES THE PRICE OF POWER

By DR. FRANK CRANE

AMERICA has a good many more questions confronting it today than it had a hundred years ago.

One reason for this is that it is a much more powerful nation than it used to be.

Privileges, duties and responsibilities increase with power.

Sometimes a rich man finds that instead of liberating him, when wealth comes to him it ties him up. He finds there are a thousand things he cannot do. His circle of friends is limited.

Along with the freedom that power brings there is a certain amount of restriction.

In Wagner's opera the god Wotan was limited always by the writing on his spear.

In some respects God, who we think can do everything, is bound down to doing certain things. His character of righteousness limits Him to doing right. He cannot do wrong.

A good man finds that he is under obligations to do a great many things, obligations that the bad man does not feel. A good man must pay his debts, must tell the truth, and on occasion must die for his country or for the protection of his loved ones. From all of these obligations the bad man flees.

The President of the United States finds his liberties much curtailed. He can hardly do as he pleases. He is being watched by a million eyes and his every act is being noted. When he was inconspicuous he had much more liberty of action.

The artist finds that he must constantly rehearse. Very often the woman artist finds she cannot devote time to her family and her profession, too. She must sacrifice the things that all women hold dear in order to have a successful career.

In some respects it seems as though success shuts us up in a sort of prison. We can only do certain things. The public will not let us roam at large.

The freest man in many respects is the tramp. He sleeps where he can and eats what he can. His poverty gives him entire liberty of action. Nobody cares what he does.

As he ascends from this condition of the hobo he finds that more and more his freedom is curtailed.

A man cannot be a prize fighter unless he trains rigidly. He cannot attain success in any athletic direction unless he subjects himself to the severest discipline.

The student finds that he must spend long hours in study if he would get to excellence.

The man who does as he pleases is the man who has nothing, can do nothing, and knows nothing.

Those who want perfect liberty should not seek it in absolute power.
